

Patricia Hearst, abductors blast actions by FBI

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Patricia Hearst says in the latest tape recording released by her kidnapers that "it's the FBI who wants to murder me." Her abductors charged the FBI with suppressing their communications.
The tape, received by a Berkeley, Calif., radio station Sunday night, was a duplicate of a recording received Saturday from Miss Hearst and the Symbionese Liberation Army, which claims it has held her since the newspaper heiress was kidnaped five weeks ago. But the tape was clearer and contained a new message from the SLA.
The tapes were the first communication from the kidnapers in 17 days.
Miss Hearst's mother, Catherine, said, "I know that while Patty is captive that she'll have to mutter all the words that are dictated by her captors." Miss Hearst, 20, is the daughter of Randolph A. Hearst, editor and president of the San Francisco Examiner.

Sunday's tape included the SLA charge that, "The FBI intercepted and suppressed" one of two tapes it put out Saturday. It said the FBI "thought the first one was the only one sent out," said a woman who described herself as being from an SLA information intelligence unit. She said the FBI was foiled by "a double-decoy system."
Sunday night's tape was addressed to KPFA-FM, Berkeley, where a woman telephoned that the new tape could be found in the fifth row of a San Francisco theater.

However, the tape recording the SLA accused the FBI of attempting to suppress apparently was found early today in the rest room of a restaurant.
FBI agent Charles Bates said, "The new tape appears to be just a copy of the other one." He denied the SLA claim that government agents had tried to intercept the recording.
The manager of the Foster's Restaurant said a night porter at the establishment found a cassette tape in the women's rest room along with a Phillips 66 credit card bearing the name of Miss Hearst's father.
The FBI said the tape was being analyzed.
In the tapes, Miss Hearst says she had the feeling she had "been written off." She said "I don't believe you're doing everything you can, everything in your power. I don't believe you're doing anything at all."

In other kidnaping developments over the weekend:
—The wife of a Decatur, Ga., K-Mart store manager was released unharmed after her husband paid about $20,000 in ransom from the office safe. It was the fourth similar incident since Christmas involving K-Mart employees in three states.
—In Hackensack, N.J., authorities continued their search for additional suspects in the kidnaping of 8-year-old John Calzadilla and their attempts to locate the $50,000 ransom paid for his release. Five persons have been arrested. The boy was released unharmed early last Friday.

—In Los Angeles, the FBI said it will present an affidavit detailing a plot to free a convicted skyjacker and another jailed man by kidnaping a foreign consul general. One woman was arrested Saturday in connection with the reported plot. She and the two jailed men were to be arraigned today.
In the Hearst case, the latest recording by the coed included this request: "I really want to get out of here. I ask you not to aid the FBI."
In Sunday's recording, a woman said the SLA sent tapes to radio stations KDIA in Oakland and KSAN in San Francisco. KSAN released its tape, but KDIA said it did not receive a copy.
"Either KDIA, without telling the public or the Hearst family, turned it over to the FBI, who in turn suppressed it, keeping it from the Hearst family, or the FBI intercepted it before KDIA got it and suppressed it from getting to the Hearst family and the public," the women said.

The latest tape was received by radio station KPFA in Berkeley.
Patricia Hearst called a $2 million food distribution plan for the poor and paid for by her father and the William Randolph Hearst Foundation "a real disaster." The SLA originally demanded $70 worth of food for every poor person in California.
Miss Hearst's father said "we were glad to hear her voice and to know that Patty's alive. But we'll be have to study it before we make any reply."

Dismissal of Ellsberg charges to be sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — District Atty. Joseph Busch of Los Angeles County agreed today to seek dismissal of California burglary and conspiracy charges that had been placed in the Ellsberg case against John D. Ehrlichman, David R. Young and G. Gordon Liddy.
The perjury charge leveled against Ehrlichman would remain.
The announcement was made jointly by Busch and special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.
Ehrlichman and Liddy were indicted by a federal grand jury last week on federal conspiracy charges in the case. Young was not indicted by the federal grand jury in Washington.
Busch agreed to drop the state charges as a result of the federal indictments.

"Among the reasons given for seeking to dismiss are that many of these issues involve matters of national interest and therefore would best be decided in the federal court system," the announcement said.
"The two indictments would be exposing defendants to trial in two different jurisdictions and, in fairness to those defendants charged in both jurisdictions and in the interests of justice, they should be tried in one jurisdiction," it said.
Ehrlichman, former chief domestic counselor to President Nixon, pleaded innocent Saturday to one count of conspiracy to violate the rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, one count of lying to the FBI and three counts of lying to the grand jury.
Charles W. Colson, a former White

House aide, also pleaded innocent Saturday to a conspiracy count in connection with the Ellsberg case.
Four other defendants in the case, including Liddy, are to be arraigned Thursday before U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell.
Ehrlichman, Young and Liddy pleaded innocent to the California charges last September and their trial had been scheduled by Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer for April 15.
Both the federal and state cases involve the September 1971 break-in of Fielding's Beverly Hills office by burglars seeking Ellsberg's files.
"The perjury charge as to John Ehrlichman in Los Angeles County will remain," the announcement said. "It involves protection solely of a state interest."

Busch and Assistant Dist. Atty. Stephen Trott met with Jaworski for an hour and afterward announced that Busch "has agreed to seek dismissal of the charges of conspiracy and burglary as to David R. Young, John Ehrlichman and G. Gordon Liddy."
It was the second time the federal case had taken precedence over the charges in California.
Egil Krogh Jr., former assistant to Ehrlichman, had been indicted along with the others in Los Angeles. But he pleaded guilty to one federal count of violating Fielding's civil rights and was sentenced to serve six months of a 2 to 6 year term. He began serving the sentence at Allenwood, Pa., prison farm on Feb. 4.

Sadat's oil meeting efforts fail

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Anwar Sadat failed to get all the Arab oil ministers to a meeting in Cairo to consider his proposal to end their oil embargo against the United States.
Instead, Algeria and Libya, who want to continue the embargo, forced a delay in the meeting until Wednesday and insisted it be held in the Libyan capital of Tripoli.
Sadat's failure Sunday was considered a blow to his chances of getting the embargo lifted. The Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar said the holdouts had agreed to discuss Sadat's proposal in Tripoli. But some observers doubted the oil ministers would raise the issue unless it had been resolved at a higher level.
After a week of conflicting announcements about the place and time for the meeting, six oil ministers — from Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Abu Dhabi, Bahrain, Qatar and Egypt — were in Cairo Sunday. Algeria, Libya and Syria stayed away.
The six who came met for 90 minutes and announced they would go to Tripoli. An Egyptian spokesman said there had been no talk of the oil embargo.
A communique said Egypt had offered to host the meeting because of a shortage of accommodations in Tripoli due to an international fair. But it said Libya had managed to provide facilities for the meeting.
Sadat has championed an end to the ban in exchange for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's assistance in getting Israeli troops to withdraw from the Suez Canal. But Algeria, Libya and Syria are holding out for the pullback of Israeli troops facing the Syrians on the Golan Heights.

Tension remains high on that front.
Syria claimed its gunners shot down an Israeli reconnaissance plane on Sunday and that it crashed near Hatem, in Jordan.
There was no confirmation from Israel. But the Israeli command said its bulldozers and demolition crews destroyed a section of the Quneitra-Damascus road on the Heights to blunt the Syrian offensive that Israel charged last week was supplies are close to average.
The FEO said in issuing the March allocations that all states were slated to receive increases in their total gasoline supply for the month, compared with February.
However, consideration of average daily supply is important because March is three days longer than February, and gasoline demand continues each day, no matter how long the month is.
In other energy-related developments: —Kuwait Oil Minister Abdul Rahman al-Atiki announced that Arab oil ministers will meet formally Wednesday in Tripoli, Libya.

Then CIA Director Richard Helms told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Feb. 7, 1973, that obtaining oil company information about prospective prices and supplies "is one of the hardest jobs we have."

Focus on state money measures

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Paying the bills for state government will likely be the focus of legislative action this week, along with House action likely Thursday on a special calendar of major bills.
The money bills fund higher education, welfare, corrections and expenses of the General Assembly.
House Appropriations Chairman James Russell, D-Florissant, said Friday he hopes action on the bills will come by Wednesday.
The corrections money could stir controversy, as state corrections chief, George Camp, criticized Russell's corrections' spending as insufficient at the end of last week. Russell retorted that corrections received more money than last year.

The special calendar was drawn up by the House Democratic leadership, and includes campaign spending bills, and a maternal health measure advocated by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.
The special list was drawn up to assure action on the bills, which are too far down on the 300-bill regular calendar.
Other bills include $17 million in state aid to public hospitals vetoed by Bond last year; state election law revisions, minimum jail standards; a delay in a state ambulance regulation law; and a bill to tighten up state welfare laws to prevent fraud and waste.
In the Senate, money bills for public schools, mental health, highways, the Department of Agriculture, and the governor's office may be taken up by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

In the House, the prisons and welfare bill totals $429 million, of which $202 million will come from state tax revenues, with taxpayers footing the bill.
The bill to pay the expense of the legislature for a year totals $6.5 million of tax money. That's almost twice what the General Assembly cost last year.
The University of Missouri would receive $115 million under the bill to come to the House floor. MU received about $105 million last year and wanted $120 million for fiscal 1974-75.
University President C. Brice Ratchford has called the bill a subsistence budget. He said there would be no funds for substantial improvement of existing operations and no major new programs could be started under the House committee bill.
However, Ratchford said it's still too soon to detail the specific impact of the appropriations on MU because final decisions in both houses and in the governor's office are still distant.

World War II straggler

Japanese soldier surrenders

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Hiroo Onoda, a World War II Japanese army officer who hid in the Philippine jungles for 29 years, presented his sword in surrender to President Ferdinand E. Marcos today.
In a televised ceremony at the presidential palace, Marcos gave the 52-year-old Japanese a full presidential pardon "for any claims or responsibilities during the war" and in the years since. The president told Onoda he was welcome to stay in the country.
However, plans were being made to fly Onoda to Tokyo Tuesday for a medical checkup.
Marcos also returned the sword to Onoda, who wore his old Imperial Army uniform.
Marcos put his arms around the wiry Japanese and said he admired him for his bravery and courage.
Onoda, facing television cameras for the first time in his life, said: "From now on, I will try my best to contribute to the development of my country and the closer cooperation of the Philippines and Japan."

A helicopter brought the former Japanese intelligence officer to the presidential palace from Lubang island, 75 miles southwest of Manila, where he surrendered Sunday to his former commanding officer, Yoshimi Taniguchi, and the Philippine air force chief, Maj. Gen. Jose Rancudo, in the presence of Japanese Ambassador Toshio Urabe. The fugitive's older brother, Dr. Toshio Onoda of Tokyo, was also present.
Dr. Onoda and Philippine Air Force doctors examined Onoda and found him physically fit. Dr. Onoda said his brother apparently had been sick only twice, with the flu, in his years in the wilderness.
Onoda was one of four Japanese soldiers who refused to surrender on Lubang when Japan capitulated in 1945. Several searches were made for them over the years, and twice Onoda was declared dead. One of the four surrendered, and another was killed in a clash with the Philippine army.

Another search for Onoda was launched last year after he and the other holdout ambushed a Philippine patrol. Onoda escaped, but his companion was killed. In February, a Japanese student, Norio Suzuki, contacted Onoda on Lubang, and last week Taniguchi joined the search to help persuade him to give up.
Onoda told newsmen he did not surrender because he had no order to do so from his superior officers.
Onoda's parents, both in their 80s, burst into tears when told their son had been found. The Japanese government announced that he will draw a pension of $610 a year for 31 years and three months of military service.

Ann Landers

Daughter pleads mother to get help

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter. If it doesn't help my mom, maybe it will help someone else.

Dear Mom: I know you have a drinking problem, but I love you too much and am too weak, or too much of a coward to tell you I know. Life hasn't been easy for you and I understand why you turned to the bottle. I wish I knew what I could do to help you, but now that I have children of my own, I am busy with my family.

We want you around as long as possible, Mom. When you go out at night by yourself, we worry. When I talk to you and then a little while later you don't remember anything you said, I am heartsick. It's happening more and more and it makes me realize the seriousness of the situation.

Get some help, Mom. Please admit you have a problem before it's too late. If you need me, I'm here. Just let me know. We all love you. — Your daughter

Dear Daughter: Here's your letter. And now a note to every mom who read it: If you felt the slightest twinge, the faintest shadow of a hint that maybe that letter was meant for you, please look up Alcoholics Anonymous in the phone book and attend their next meeting. A better way of life is as close as your telephone.

Dear Ann Landers: Remember that fellow who set the world's finger-snapping record and drew a crowd of over 300 people? As I recall, you didn't think that was much of an accomplishment and a lot of readers got mad at you. Well, how do you like this one? A 20-year-old Italian hair stylist in Boston edged out a 21-year-old telephone operator in a spaghetti-eating contest.

These two shoveled in the pasta for one solid hour and 40 minutes. The young woman washed down the boiled spaghetti (which she said she didn't care for) with red wine. Her opponent drank water. When she quit she said she wasn't really full yet but she was getting loaded on the wine.

The spaghetti-eating champ had won two other "firsts." He had eaten one pound of cheddar cheese in 4½ minutes and 266 pitted prunes in 40 minutes.

What do you think about such "stellar" achievements, Ann Landers? — Hollywood Witness

Dear Wit: I'm happy to say I don't have to think about them. To each his own.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 38, divorced and going with a married man. We have been seeing each other for three years. I lost my husband because of him. We are together almost every weekend and two or three evenings during the week.

Am I crazy or is he? This man is successful in business, has a fairly attractive wife, a nice home and six good children. He says his wife is a wonderful mother (they have been married 26 years) but she is not interesting to him sexually or otherwise. He likes my company.

Why would a wife stand for her husband to be gone four or five evenings a week? He has to be telling some fantastic lies to get away with it. She MUST realize he has somebody else. Why doesn't she divorce him and give us a chance to have a decent life together? What do you see that I might have overlooked? — Mystified Ms.

Dear Ms.: I see (1) six children, (2) a wife who would rather have half a loaf than none, and (3) a man who probably doesn't want a divorce and has never brought up the subject.

Democrats threatened by divisive primaries

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic prospects in many of the nation's largest states are being threatened by potentially divisive primary battles as candidates try to take advantage of seeming Republican vulnerability.

Party leaders are concerned that hopes to make major gains in the wake of Watergate, including capturing the New York and California governorships, may fall victim to factionalism.

Republican-held states in which Democratic primary fights for governor seem likely include New York, California, Connecticut, Michigan and Massachusetts.

As for Senate seats, Democratic hopes of swelling their current 58-42 majority could be hampered by primary battles in Florida, Ohio, Colorado,

Restitution effort on FTC violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission's time-honored method for dealing with deceptive practices has been to let the violators off with a promise to go and sin no more.

But a promise isn't enough any more.

Now the commission is ordering violators to return tainted gains on purchases as varied as motorcycle helmets and homesties.

As Mayo J. Thompson, the commissioner from Texas, puts it: "I don't see how you can stop rustling if you let the rustler keep the cows."

An example of the change, now in full bloom despite a pending court challenge, is the commission's dealings with pyramid marketing schemes.

The pyramid is usually set up to distribute an everyday consumer product. Participants pay a few thousand dollars to enter the distribution chain. The person who signs up a new recruit gets part of the entry fee, and the organizer gets the rest.

The commission has found that the organizer and anyone lucky enough to sign up a stable of recruits are rewarded handsomely, very few products are sold and the folks at the bottom of the pyramid wind up wiser but poorer.

In 1970, the commission complained that Bestline Products Corp. of San Jose, Calif., had set up a pyramid to sell cleaning products, charging $3,700 for the second level of distributors.

Bestline signed a promise not to use deceptive techniques in recruiting distributors, and the FTC let it go at that.

But last year the commission complained in court that Bestline hadn't kept its promise.

The court is considering the FTC's request for nearly $500,000 in fines.

In 1971, the commission filed similar pyramid complaints against Holiday Magic and Koscot Interplanetary, two cosmetic distribution plans. Now, the commission staff is asking that the companies be required to refund participants' money.

"In each case the staff is taking a look at the facts to see if restitution is justified," said J. Thomas Rosch, head of the commission's consumer protection bureau.

"There's a great deal of staff effort now being placed in the area of restitution," said Commission Chairman Lewis A. Engman.

The breath of life

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am wondering about the right and wrong techniques of mouth-to-mouth respiration — and what the dangers are when done wrong?

I am elderly. I had been listening to a talk attentively and under tension for one long hour. When I was standing upright after that I passed out.

When I soon became semiconscious someone near me raised my head, pinched my nose shut tightly and pushed my lower jaw down tightly and began mouth-to-mouth respiration. It stopped my breath. It seemed like I was in torture. I pulled away and blacked out again. When I became conscious again my tongue got thick and my lower jaw was so stiff I could hardly answer questions.

When should mouth-to-mouth respiration be given and how?

Dear Reader — I would imagine that mouth-to-mouth respiration would be very uncomfortable if you were breathing normally on your own.

Artificial respiration should be given when the breathing has stopped. If the breathing is very shallow and infrequent it might be difficult to be sure that a person is still breathing. If there is any doubt then one can

Six lives lost in accidents

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents in Missouri claimed six lives over the weekend.

The victims were Jeffrey Wolf, 17, of Florissant; Peter Glatt, 19, Crestwood; Keith Burkholder, 37, St. Louis; Elgin Roy True, 18, Lebanon; Marjorie Beard, 36, Columbia and Kenneth F. Simpson, 10, Greentop.

Glatt was killed Sunday evening when his car went out of control on Interstate 55 in St. Louis. A passenger in the car was not injured.

Wolf died at St. Louis County Hospital Sunday of head and internal injuries after he was struck on his bicycle in the county. The driver, who was not charged, said he was trying to pass a group of bicyclists when Wolf swerved in front of him.

Burkholder, a St. Louis disc jockey who used the name "Keith Morris" on radio station WIL, died Saturday in a two-car collision on U.S. 40 in St. Louis. The driver of the second car was charged with manslaughter, driving while intoxicated and driving after his license was suspended.

Earlier Saturday, True died when the car in which he was a passenger ran off Missouri 32 just west of Lebanon and landed in a creek.

In separate accidents Friday night, the Beard woman died when a car ran off a county road near Columbia and the Simpson youth was killed when a car driven by his stepbrother ran off U.S. 63 between Greentop and Kirksville.

Praying Danny through to health

By PAUL ANDERSON
The boy grabbed my attention the first time I saw him. Danny was his name. He was 14.
I had stopped by the Clayton County Juvenile Detention Center near Atlanta, where the juvenile officer there had told me about Danny. Danny had been alienated from his widowed mother, was considered incorrigible and was truant from school.
When Danny came to meet me, he didn't shake hands; instead he squatted and began a series of deep knee bends on one leg, a remarkable athletic achievement.
"What are you doing, son?" I asked.
"I understand you have to be a great athlete to get into the Paul Anderson Youth Home," he said.
I laughed and put my arm around him. Even though he was wrong, I liked his spirit. "Son, besides repenting of your mistakes and being willing to find God's plan for your life, the only thing you have to do to get into my home is accept me as your father-image. Good or bad, you're my son when I take you in, and the Paul Anderson Youth Home is your home from now on. You're my son and I'm your dad."

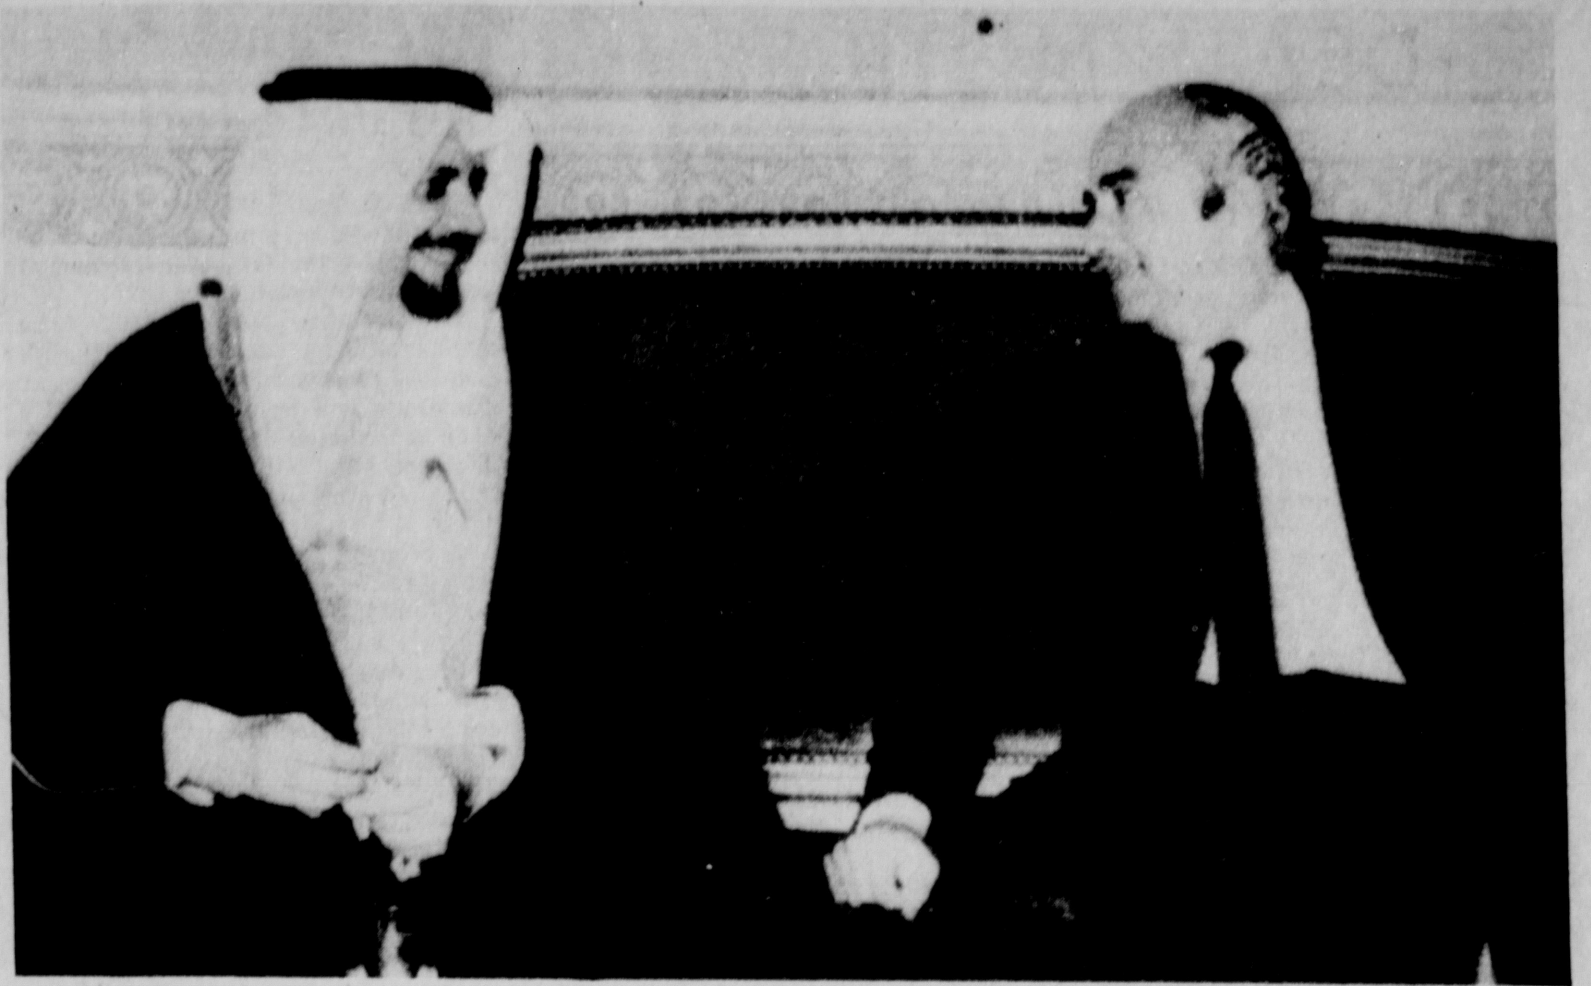

Paul Anderson

Danny accepted the terms. Several years later in 1968, Danny was an all-state tackle and captain of his high-school football team. The games were on Friday nights and since several of the 20 boys at our youth home were on the squad, like any father who has a son on an athletic team, I felt I should be there.
One week early that fall I was away giving a series of talks and weight-lifting demonstrations to help meet the expenses of our home. I arrived back in Vidalia

Friday evening just two hours before the game, which was in Irvington, nearly 100 miles away.
After a bite to eat and a quick change of clothes, I drove to Irvington for the game with two of my staff members.
Just before the first half ended I noticed something wrong on the field. Danny was staggering back to the huddle and then collapsed on the ground.
I knew he was a hard player and thought he was just tired, but when a doctor joined the coach around his prone figure, I went down on the field to see what was wrong.
Danny's eyes were crossed and his speech incoherent. "We need to get him into Macon to the hospital immediately," the doctor said. "It looks like a brain injury."
At the Macon General Hospital, the neurosurgeon said there was a large blood clot on his brain and he needed to operate immediately.
The operation lasted four hours. Finally the doctor reappeared. He looked at us and shook his head grimly. "All I can say is that he has a chance to live."
My throat was tight as I looked at the white-faced group around me. "Let's pray," I said. There in the hall we bowed our heads and asked God to heal Danny.

Then I turned and walked slowly down the hall to an empty room. Closing the door behind me, I knelt in the dark. "Lord," I said, "out there we kind of chatted with you. Now I really want to get serious."
It was 2 a.m. when I returned to the solemn group in the hall. The doctor joined us briefly and said one of us could sit with Danny in the recovery room.
I sat beside Danny the rest of the night, holding his thrashing body and praying at the same time. The nurse came in every 20 minutes and took his blood pressure.
Maybe it seemed strange to her to see a big strong man calling out to God, but it wasn't strange to me.
At dawn I was wiping the crust from Danny's parched mouth when he opened his eyes. "Danny," I whispered. "Yes, sir, that you, Paul?"
Danny's coach, my wife and some of our staff members arrived at the hospital around noon: I was supposed to lift weights in Titusville, Fla., at a conference of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes that night.
"How can you do it?" Glenda asked. "You've been three nights without sleep."
But I've learned that those times when we feel most drained are the times when the Lord can often work some of His greatest miracles through us.
God was not only giving me strength and using my strength to reach others. He was healing Danny. Four days after the brain surgery the neurosurgeon came out of Danny's room shaking his head. "I can't understand it," he said, "but Danny has completely recovered and is ready to go home."
Before the season was over, Danny was so completely healed he was back in the lineup at his tackle position and having a great year.
On a bright Sunday morning, with the rest of the boys from the youth home looking on, Danny walked down front in the First Methodist Church of Vidalia and publicly accepted Jesus Christ as his personal Saviour.
That was the morning I turned Danny over to another Father — the same Father who watches over me. I knew that from now on Danny will be looking to Him for his strength, just as I do.

Big boost in farm land value

WASHINGTON (AP) — The value of American farm land shot up 21 per cent last year, reflecting a booming demand for the acreage that parallels a demand for its products.

The Agriculture Department survey of farm real estate values showed the 1973 increase to be second only to the 22 per cent jump recorded in the spring of 1920.

The demand apparently increased substantially over the summer and fall of last year — or it may have been mostly a reflection of soaring farm prices, food costs and housing demand.

For the year that ended March 1, 1973, the increase had been 13 per cent. The new index, for the year that ended Nov. 1, reflected the 21 per cent rise.

Even the lowest increase, 10 per cent in Louisiana, significantly was above the 7 per cent average annual rate of increase in the United States over the last 10 years.

Since March 1967, farm land values have risen 70 per cent, with a wide swing in the states from a 186 per cent jump in Nevada over those 6½ years to 27 per cent in California, where farm income is the highest.

Colorado led all the states with a 33 per cent increase last year, followed by Pennsylvania with 31 and South Carolina, Alabama and Iowa each with 30.

Although Missouri, with a 15 per cent rise, and Texas, with 16, fell behind, most of the principal farming states of the Midwest and the Southeast were at or above the national average.

The USDA statisticians did not get into the issue of whether the land values were rising because of record farm incomes and attractive productivity, or because of pressure created by developers and other private interests seeking land in a country setting.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost 25 million children are taking part in the National School Lunch Program, the Agriculture Department says.

In a preliminary report Friday on federal-state food programs, the department also said that about 15 million persons received either food stamps or food from the USDA distribution program in January, the same number as in January 1973 but an increase of 400,000 over December.

For the school lunch program, participation has risen since January 1973 by 100,000 children, with 9.2 million of the total receiving their meals free or at reduced prices. Under the program, USDA reimburses local school districts at set rates for each meal with additional payments for each free or reduced-price meal provided youngsters from lower-income families.

The number of persons receiving food stamps jumped to a new peak of 13 million persons in January, a spokesman said, representing a level 400,000 above December and 600,000 above the year before.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. soybean production this year could decrease for the first time since 1959, according to a survey by the American Soybean Association.

The survey of planting intentions released by the Hutchinson, Iowa, organization Friday showed soybean acreage down by 7.6 per cent, to 52.9 million acres.

Gasoline new problem for traveling salesman

NEW YORK (AP) — The traveling salesman in the United States has seen his income crimped by shrinking commission rates, rising travel costs and shortages of products to sell.

Now there's the problem with gasoline. And whatever its future, it's forcing new changes on salesmen, and some say they could be driven off the road if it continues.

Nick Adams, a traveling sales representative for several auto parts makers, was stranded in Granville, Wash., for two days when service stations ran out of gas. Now he makes fewer trips and asks customers to guarantee him a tank of gas for the return trip.

Mike Gale, who sells for costume jewelry firms, has cut some working days in half to find enough gasoline on the Connecticut Turnpike for his return to New York City.

The National Council of Salesmen's Organizations represents some 70,000 of the nation's 250,000 independent traveling sales representatives—those who live entirely by commissions on whatever sales they can drum up. The gasoline shortage, it says, is the most critical, immediate problem ever to face such salesmen.

"It's a lot more than an inconvenience," says Gale. "It's an economic loss."

"If we don't see customers, we don't sell merchandise. If this continues through the summer when a lot more gas is used for vacations and weekend traveling, I think a lot of traveling salesmen will begin thinking about leaving the business."

Some independent salesmen already have lost their jobs as small companies find that telephoning customers sometimes can accomplish almost as much as selling face to face. Costs as well as fuel problems are factors.

"It's about as efficient as traveling right now, and it cuts down overhead since we don't have commissions to pay," says a spokesman for American Gypsum Co., a small gypsum board maker in Albuquerque, N.M., which halved its sales force and doubled its phoning.

The national salesmen's group estimates the average cost of a salesman's visit was about $50 in 1971. It cost about $60 last year and has gone up eight to 10 per cent since last fall.

Commission rates, meanwhile, have drifted down. The American Management Association says that, on industrial goods, the rate slipped from 7.5 per cent in 1967 to 7.4 per cent last year. On consumer goods, it went from 6.9 per cent to 5.7 per cent.

The salesmen's group estimates the average salesman uses 4,000 gallons of gasoline a year, driving 40,000 miles and averaging 10 miles a gallon between city and country driving. At 20 cents more a gallon—less of a hike than some New York salesmen say they're paying—that's $800 more a year in gas bills.

Hepatitis cases linked to piercing of earlobes

CHICAGO (AP) — Earlobe piercing with improperly sterilized instruments has been found to result in hepatitis, a study in Seattle, Wash., has found.

The March 11 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association reports that seven cases of the liver disease were associated with earlobe piercing in one year in King County, Wash.

The investigation was begun in 1973 after the mother of a girl who had her earlobes pierced in a jewelry store complained to public health officials that the jeweler had used soiled instruments.

The authors of the report, Dr. Carl J. Johnson, now of the Jefferson County, Colo., Health Department, and Herb Anderson, Jean Spearman and Julia Madson of the Seattle-King County Health Department, found that the jeweler used blood-stained instruments.

He told the authorities he soaked the instrument in a strong alcohol solution between procedures. But they point out that the alcohol solution does not kill the hepatitis virus.

They also found that some physicians still use a cold solution which is supposed to sterilize instruments used in minor surgery, including earlobe piercing, which also does not destroy the virus.

The authors recommended that earlobe piercing instruments be sterilized in an autoclave, an oven-like device which destroys germs with extremely high temperatures, or by boiling for 20 minutes.

Stiff fighting at seaport in Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Stiff fighting was reported today at three points around the besieged seaport of Kampot, the Cambodian command said.

Clashes were reported to the south along the shipping channel from the sea. The insurgents were reported trying to close the last means the government has of supplying its forces. Field reports said a battalion of marines was positioned along the banks of the channel trying to keep it open.

Fighting also has been reported around an old railroad station north of the town for the past week, and government reinforcements have been sent to the area to assist the defenders.

At a bridge east of Kampot, insurgents were attacking government units and trying to gain a foothold on the western bank of a small river there, reports said. Kampot is 85 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

Nineteen miles southwest of Phnom Penh, 1,500 government troops and 50 armored vehicles were moving against insurgent roadblocks along Highway 4. The military command said planes and artillery were blasting the insurgents daily, but no progress has been reported in a week of attacks.

In Cai Lay, South Vietnam, officials said that 32 children died Sunday when a Viet Cong mortar shell landed in a schoolyard located between two military headquarters.

The officials said that 23 children were killed instantly and nine died later in the hospital. More than 50 others were wounded. Cai Lay is a district town in the Mekong Delta 45 miles southwest of Saigon.

Funeral services were held today for some of the children, aged 8 to 12. A few miles away, government gunships raked suspected Viet Cong mortar positions.

Farther on in the delta, more fighting was reported on the southern edge of the Plain of Reeds, 50 to 60 miles southwest of Saigon, where South Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces have been battling for more than three weeks for the rice harvest. The government reported 26 Viet Cong and four government soldiers killed Sunday in two clashes.

Senate plans final housing bill vote today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate plans a final vote today on a massive $10.4 billion housing bill going far beyond President Nixon's recommendations.

Senate passage is certain. The administration has decided to fight the bill when it is considered later by the House.

The House will begin debate Wednesday on another major measure — an $18.4 billion education bill revising and extending the aid programs for grade and high schools.

This promises to be the battleground for another in the long series of fights over school busing. But floor votes on this legislation will not take place until the following week.

The Senate may take up later in the week a bill to restore the death penalty in certain cases.

The housing bill contains a Democratic substitute for Nixon's special revenue sharing plan on funds for the cities.

It lumps together money for all the present community development programs such as urban renewal and Model Cities. However, it retains federal strings on the funds which the President wanted to drop.

The measure also meets in part another administration recommendation by consolidating a multitude of housing assistance programs into a number deemed more manageable. But in doing so, the bill also continues major housing subsidy programs which Nixon wants to end. These cover both home ownership and rental apartments for the poor.

Other provisions would lower down payments on FHA-insured mortgages and raise substantially the ceilings on the amount of a mortgage that can be insured.

Police are still seeking driver of abandoned vehicle

Police are still searching for the driver of a 1969 Roadrunner who ran on foot from the scene of a four-car accident Friday afternoon at Broadway and Missouri.

Police Chief William Miller said Monday morning that police are "almost positive" of the identity of the driver.

"We believe we know who the driver of the car is," said Miller. "We're just about certain."

Police said the driver is wanted on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. Miller declined to release the name of the driver until he has been apprehended.

The man reportedly ran a stop sign at Broadway and Missouri at a high rate of speed and collided with a 1971 Buick driven by Terry Watson, 17, 1202 Sue Lane, which, in turn, collided with a car driven by Lois Harvey, 2409 Golf Drive. The Roadrunner then struck a second car driven by Dennis Eding, 606 South Missouri.

The Roadrunner continued north over the curb and hit a brick wall. The driver of the car was reportedly thrown from the car but was able to flee the area on foot.

Flooding results from weekend rains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A line of thunderstorms that extended into Texas caused small streams to overflow their banks in some sections of southeast Kansas and southern Missouri late Sunday.

National Guardsmen helped to evacuate more than 100 persons from their homes on the west end of Coffeyville, Kan., and some 25 persons were evacuated in nearby Parsons.

Authorities in Parsons also were searching for an elderly local man feared to have been swept away by Labette Creek. His saddled horse was found near the stockyards in the north part of town.

Basement were reported flooded in many Pittsburg, Kan., residences and some roads in the city were nearly impassable.

By late Sunday night, the rainfall had stopped in southeast Kansas.

The Missouri Highway Patrol said several secondary roads in the Springfield area were closed and Missouri 23 was flooded south of Concordia.

Mishap claims two near Gravois Mills

GRAVOIS MILLS, Mo. (AP) — Two women whose car was washed off a bridge over Little Gravois Creek were found dead in their submerged vehicle today, Morgan County authorities said.

Sheriff L. M. Earnest Jr. identified the victims as Marie Cooley, 60, of Sunrise Beach, and Ruby West, about 70, of Gravois Mills.

Police said the women's car was washed off the bridge Sunday night. The car was found submerged about a half mile downstream at daybreak today.

West Virginia miners agree to continue strike

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Miners in four southern West Virginia counties say they will remain off their jobs, virtually assuring continuation of a strike that has idled an estimated 20,000 men.

The miners agreed to continue the strike at a series of meetings Sunday after a few miners at scattered union locals decided to report to work today. The work stoppage, entering its third week, has crippled production of metallurgical coal for the nation's industry and steel mills.

Dissident miners are protesting a state ban on selling gasoline to motorists whose fuel gauges register more than a quarter of a tank.

A meeting Sunday afternoon at Drawdy Falls in Boone County drew more than 1,000 UMW District 17 miners who voted overwhelmingly not to go back to work until Gov. Arch A. Moore rescinds the limitation.

The governor attempted last week to get the miners back to work by exempting from the quarter-tank rule miners and others who travel to work 250 miles or more a week.

Bill Sparks, a strike leader, said West Virginia officials have shown "the state can't deal with the oil companies, so we've got to go higher up. What we can do is this ... close every mine in the country."

Nixon joins in wife's sendoff to Venezuela

KEY BISCAIYNE, Fla. (AP) — Pat Nixon returns to Caracas, Venezuela, today on a good will mission to a country where she and President Nixon were spat upon and threatened by angry mobs 16 years ago.

He said "our closest friends and neighbors are here in the Western Hemisphere."

Speaking to several hundred airmen and their families who gathered at nearby Homestead Air Force Base prior to departure, Nixon said his wife has been described as "the best ambassador the United States has."

Mrs. Nixon, speaking briefly, said she would be conveying to those she sees in Venezuela and Brazil the best wishes of the American people.

Nixon said it was appropriate that the first lady was leaving for Caracas, Venezuela, from Florida "which knows so well the contributions made to this country by persons of Latin background."

Flying aboard the big Boeing jet that once served as Air Force One, Mrs. Nixon took off from Homestead at 11:56 a.m. EDT.

She was bound for a city, Caracas, where she and her husband, then the vice president, were spat upon and threatened by angry mobs 16 years ago.

There will be tight security for the First Lady's three-day stay in Caracas, but a friendly welcome is anticipated. And Mrs. Nixon has no fears about returning, according to her press secretary, Helen Smith.

The First Lady heads a U.S. delegation to Venezuela for the inauguration of its new president, Carlos Andres Perez, who won a landslide election victory in December.

A presidential jet will pick Mrs. Nixon up in Florida, where she relaxed over the weekend. Nixon was to be on hand to see her off at noon EDT from Homestead Air Force Base there.

After Venezuela, she will fly to Brazil for the inauguration Friday of its new president, retired Army Gen. Ernesto Geisel.

President Nixon said he was sending his wife to the inaugurations as evidence of his "continued interest in promoting close and cooperative relations with the nations of Latin America and the Caribbean."

The Nixons visited Caracas in 1958 during a vice presidential tour of South America. Venezuela, the last stop on their trip, had just emerged from 10 years of dictatorship under Perez Jimenez. Anti-American sentiment was high because Jimenez had been given asylum in the United States.

Spiritual head of Church of England is leaving post

LONDON (AP) — Dr Michael Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury and spiritual head of the Church of England, announced today he will resign next November.

Dr. Ramsey is 69. He has been Archbishop of Canterbury and primate of England since 1961.

His resignation effective Nov. 15 was announced in a message to Queen Elizabeth II, temporal head of the Anglican Church. His successor will be appointed on the advice of Prime Minister Harold Wilson—assuming Wilson's minority government survives in power.

Voluntary rationing in Louisiana

By The Associated Press

Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards says he will announce a voluntary gasoline rationing plan for Louisiana motorists today, based on the so-called Oregon license plate system.

Under the system, cars with license tags ending on an even number could buy gasoline on even-numbered days, while those ending with an odd number buy on odd numbered days.

Edwards, contacted at the executive office in Baton Rouge Sunday night, said, "I want to emphasize that this is a voluntary plan."

He called it "an effort to cut down the size of long lines at service stations and to conserve available gasoline."

He added that he had no immediate hopes for increasing the amount of gasoline available for Louisiana motorists.

Nationwide, motorists generally found last weekend a bit easier in their search for gasoline. Fourteen weeks after the first "Gasless Sunday," service stations were open in increased numbers, an Associated Press survey revealed. The trend for business as usual on Sunday is a result of concern over declining tourist revenues and long lines during the week.

In many cases, the Sunday openings were urged by state officials. The New York State Thruway Authority announced an end to Sunday closings, claiming they caused too much "hardship and inconvenience."

In Allentown, Pa., the gasoline shortage has been blamed for the first cancellation in the history of the city's annual St. Patrick's Day parade.

The decision to cancel the parade was made Sunday at an emergency meeting of the St. Patrick's Day Observance Society. A spokesman for the society said 70 per cent of those who were planning to participate in the March 17 parade had to travel 75 miles or more just to get to Allentown.

Firefighters vote on wage agreement

Members of Firefighter's Local 823 voted Monday morning on whether to accept the results of an agreement arrived at last week by the City Council and union representatives.

The agreement included a $50 per month salary increase, a work-week reduction to 50 hours a week, a $5,000 increase in life insurance benefits, time and one-half overtime pay, time and title pay increased to a rank temporarily assumed and longevity pay.

It was also agreed that these provisions would be included in a written agreement between the firemen and the council. This statement would not be in the form of a signed contract.

Vogler declined to reveal the outcome of the election until he contacts Mayor Jerry Jones and Councilman Carl Franklin, chairman of the Fire and Water Committee. He did indicate, however, that 23 of the Local's 37 members voted in the special election.

Automobile stolen from Fireside Inn

A car owned by Ronald Barnett, Warrensburg, was reported stolen from the Fireside Inn, 1975 West Broadway, between 1 a.m. and 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

The car, a 1964 Chevrolet, reportedly was not locked at the time of the theft.

In other police news, a fire extinguisher, valued at $50, was stolen from the Harrison Apartments, 1405 South Quincy, sometime during the evening of March 7. The theft was reported by Bobbie Wittman, owner of the apartment building.

FOOD &amp; FIBER NEWS

University of Missouri Extension Centers
Henry Johnson - Lafayette Pettis

The method most popular for pruning grapes is called the "four-cane Kniffen system," named for the man who developed it. Grapes must be supported on a trellis, and the "four-cane Kniffen system" adapts to a two-wire trellis.

The four fruiting canes selected should have moderate vigor, be reasonably straight, and originate near the trunk, close to the appropriate trellis wires. All other growth should be removed. Shorten the four selected fruiting canes to six or ten buds each, depending on plant vigor. The more vigorous the plant, the more buds that may be left remaining on each cane.

Renewal spurs are developed from other canes that originated near the main trunk. These are also selected from shoots originating close to the trellis wires. Such canes are but to only two buds each. From these stubs will develop shoots for fruit in the summer of 1975. Each year the same pruning process is repeated: four canes are selected along with four renewal spurs, all originating close to the main trunk and close to each trellis wire.

British miners back on the job

LONDON (AP) — Britain's 280,000 miners began fulltime work today after a four-week strike and a three-month slowdown that crippled the country's economy.

The National Coal Board said it would take another four weeks to return to 100 per cent full production. It predicted production would be 50 per cent of normal by the end of this week, 75 per cent by the end of next week and 90 per cent plus the weekend after that.

Normal weekly coal production is about 2.5 million tons.

The miners' action to get a larger pay raise than the Conservative government was willing to give them started with a ban on overtime and weekend work that cut coal production up to 40 per cent. The government put much of industry on a three-day work week on Dec. 15 to conserve fuel supplies.

The miners struck on Feb. 10, three days after Prime Minister Edward Heath called a national election in the hope that he could rally the country against the miners. Instead he lost the election, and the first action of the new Labor government was to settle the strike by giving a wage hike costing $230 million a year.

Report says poor paid more to eat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Figures released today by the Agriculture Department showed poor people last year paid proportionally more to eat than middle-income and richer families.

The statistics, compiled by family economists in the Agricultural Research Service, showed a "low-cost" food plan in January cost a family of four $41.70 per week. That was up almost 14 per cent from $36.70 in April 1973.

A "moderate-cost" plan rose less than 12.5 per cent from April to January to $53.20 per week. Nine months earlier it cost $47.30 per week.

For a "liberal" plan, a four-member family — including two school children — the January bill was $64.60 per week, up about 11.2 per cent from $58.10 in April last year.

The Nixon administration imposed retail and wholesale price lids on meat in March and later extended Phase 4 curbs to all food prices. Most controls were removed in July, although beef prices remained under the freeze order until Sept. 10.

A basic difference between low-cost and liberal-cost food plans as defined by USDA is an allowance for more expensive cuts of meat in the higher-cost category.

Thus, the department says, a family eating a low-cost diet would have more potatoes, dry beans, peas, breads and cereals. But prices for those items have gone up, in some cases more rapidly than meat prices.

The packed soil

Some gardeners are complaining about their garden being hard and packed.

This condition can be alleviated somewhat by adding 50 pounds gypsum per 500 square feet. Next year a fall plowing of this garden site will do much to improve the soil condition at garden planting time next spring. The addition of any organic matter such as your leaves is a help.

Any gardeners who would like to know the recommended varieties for freezing or the best to grow in this area may have a Garden Planting Guide by calling the Extension office, 827-0591. This guide also gives the recommended planting dates and rate.

Corn picture

There may be some offsetting factors that will tend to increase both corn acreage and yields. The current prices for corn, both old and new, are unusually high in comparison with soybean prices. The good prices for corn provide a very strong incentive to plant a large acreage of corn and to strive for high yields. A large part of the corn acreage probably will be planted a week to ten days earlier than last year. The weather surely will be better, and some farmers have better and faster equipment. Each day gained will add about 1 bushel to yields per acre. As in previous years, most farmers have learned a new trick or two to boost yields.

Fertilize carefully

Wise use of fertilizer is especially important for the coming season according to David Lindell, Area Agronomy Specialist. There are a number of ways farmers of this area can use and store fertilizer efficiently. If you haven't already had your fields tested, have samples tested very soon. Some fields may have adequate amounts of one or more fertilizer nutrients.

Starter fertilizer is a must when supplies are scarce. Where the rate of application must be reduced, most or all of the available phosphorus should be applied in the row. Make sure the row fertilizer is properly placed in the row and not dribbled on top of the soil. Place row fertilizer about two inches to the side and slightly below the seed level.

If you do not have enough fertilizer, you might plan to plant soybeans on your most fertile cropland. Soybeans are known as good second feeders, because they are scavengers for plant food remaining from previous crops.

If fertilizer supplies for corn are short, plant only the number of acres of corn that you can adequately fertilize with nitrogen. Then plant soybeans on the rest of the cropland. Your soil test report form will also indicate the fields that need lime.

Blend materials, mixed fertilizers, and straight materials including ammonium nitrate and urea may be safely stored in bulk under cover and protected from ground moisture with plastic.

Some suppliers suggest that a proportion of one part nitrogen to two parts phosphorus is the safest to store without caking. Others say their one to one proportions store safely.

Join the swing to vegetable gardens

All signs point to a sharp increase in the number of home vegetable gardens in 1974. Less gasoline at higher prices will reduce travel, and more leisure time will be spent at home. Increasing food costs stimulate a need to divert some of this leisure time toward vegetable gardening. What better way to spend some spare moments, get exercise, and reduce the food bill? Fresh vegetables taste better, too.

Start planning the garden now. The seasoned gardener is already making plans and getting seeds, but he doesn't have to get the jump on you. Don't feel that the vegetable garden has to cover a large space and require a lot of time. A corner of the yard, a few pots or planters on the patio, or even a few vegetable plants mixed among the flower border may serve your needs and help fill spare time.

Do not believe the man who says, "It's no use to plant a garden around here — there are too many pests and the soil is too poor." Soils can be improved, and pests can be controlled. It only takes a little effort and know-how.

Start with vegetables that are easy to grow. A half-dozen vegetables for the beginner should include leaf lettuce, radishes and onions for early spring planting in March. In late April or May, when danger of frost is past, bush beans, tomatoes and peppers round out the beginning garden.

A garden of carrots, cauliflower, and Chinese cabbage stands little chance for success by the beginner. Select well adapted varieties. Some of the best are listed in the "Vegetable Planting Calendar," Horticultural Guide Sheet 6201, available from University Extension Centers.

Decide on the size of the garden very carefully. In the pleasant spring weather it is tempting to plant more than time will allow for tending. It is better to have a small garden, well tended, weeded and watered, than a large garden full of weeds and suffering from drought in the heat of midsummer. Well cared-for plants are more productive and often more resistant to disease attacks. Even when insect and disease problems arise, their control is much easier when the planting is not too large.

Gardening success also depends on location. Most vegetable plants require full sunlight, at least until late afternoon. Abundant shade reduces production. Morning shade keeps the plant leaves wet longer and may increase their chances of attack by disease. If possible, do not locate the garden close to trees, even if they cast no shade on the garden. The roots of some trees are quick to spread into the cultivated, well fertilized soil and compete with the vegetables.

Drainage is also very important in locating the garden. Most vegetables like well-drained soil and should not be planted in low areas with tight, heavy soils. If your only location for a garden is poorly drained, build raised beds by bringing in some soil, or supply some means of drainage with ditches or underground tile.

In some areas there will be pests other than weeds, insects and diseases. A wire fence may be the only means of protecting the garden from rabbits or other small animals.

A garden calls for a little work, but the work is generally pleasant and the dividends of a good crop are well worth the effort.

Annual egg and turkey days

(Democrat-Capital Service)

COLUMBIA — The annual poultry doubleheader — Egg Day and Turkey Day — will be held March 13 and 14, respectively, in the Ramada Inn here.

The University of Missouri-Columbia's department of poultry husbandry and Extension Division sponsor both events, in cooperation with the Missouri Egg Industries Assn. and the Missouri Turkey Industries Assn., according to Glenn Geiger, UMC Extension poultryman.

A film, "Canadian Egg Production and Marketing," will open the 19th annual Missouri Egg Day program at 9:30 a.m. March 13, preceded by registration beginning at 9 a.m.

Marketing and merchandising programs for Missouri eggs will be discussed by Dexter Davis, executive vice-president, Missouri Egg Merchandising Council, and J. M. Ragsdale, Extension agricultural economist at UMC, will give the 1974 feed grain outlook.

The third topic of the morning will be "A Brand New Look in Egg Promotions," a report from the American Egg Board by Richard L. Kathe, president of the board, Park Ridge, Ill.

"Today's Research — Tomorrow's Profits" will be the theme of the afternoon program, beginning at 1:30. Research topics to be presented include:

— A new look at the nutritional value of eggs. What's being done and why? How does it relate to labeling and the nutrient data bank?

— Using egg shell and hatchery waste to best advantage.

— Lighting hens with less light.

— The disease situation in Missouri.

— Layer nutrition and protein levels.

A special panel will discuss what's right and what's wrong with today's pullets and how pullet quality affects the laying house.

Egg Day adjournment will be at 3:30 p.m., but optional bus tours will take interested persons to the UMC Veterinary Research Farm and to the Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory beginning at 4 p.m.

Egg Day registration is $5, which includes a luncheon.

A film will also open the 21st annual Missouri Turkey Day the following morning, March 14, at 9:30 a.m. As with Egg Day, registration will begin one-half hour before the film.

The Turkey Day film will be "Turkey — the Four Season Favorite." Ragsdale will again give the feed grain outlook, and Cordell Tindell, editor of the Missouri Ruralist, will discuss agriculture and the energy crisis. A consumer panel will wrap up the morning program.

The luncheon speaker will be Mike Meshe, director of industry relation, National Turkey Federation, Reston, Va.

Afternoon topics will include protein levels in growing rations, sanitizing hatching eggs, ground turkey meat, use of turkey in Missouri restaurants, fowl cholera, and turkey diseases in 1974.

Speakers will include one UMC graduate student and UMC faculty members in poultry husbandry, agricultural economics, and veterinary medicine. Time will be provided for questions from the audience, and adjournment is set for 3:15 p.m.

Experts to conduct horsemanship clinic

Nationally known experts in horsemanship will conduct the second annual All-State Youth Horsemanship Clinic April 13 at the University of Missouri-Columbia, according to Ron Blackwell, clinic director.

Instructors will include quarter horse showmen Tommy Manion, Springfield, Ill.; Miss Vicki Kinsey, Indianola, Iowa; and Mrs. Pat Lange, Manhattan, Kan., who will cover topics in all phases of equitation, training the horse and rider for exhibit, and training tips.

Blackwell, second-year veterinary medicine student at UMC, initiated the clinic, first held last spring at Stephens College. This year's clinic will move to the UMC Livestock Center, and a fee of $1.50 will be charged at the door. About 1,100 persons attended the 1973 clinic.

Others involved in the demonstrations and talks will include Mrs. Shirley Hardwick, head of equestrian studies at Stephens College; Jimmy Simmons, saddle horse trainer from Mexico, Mo.; and James Coffman, associate professor of veterinary medicine at UMC and nationally recognized equine specialist.

Clinic sponsors include the UMC animal husbandry department and Extension Division, the American Saddle Horse Breeders' Futurity of Missouri, and friends.

Conference coordinator is Ms. Barbara Maier, Conferences and Short Courses, 344 Hearnes Multipurpose Bldg., UMC, Columbia, Mo. 65201.

Chasing stolen truck dangerous for policeman

CHARLESTON, Mo. (AP)—A Charleston police officer has learned the drawbacks of tailgating a five-ton Army truck.

Police said a squad car was following an Army truck early Sunday morning after the truck had been stolen from a National Guard unit.

However, every time the police car would approach the truck from the rear, its driver would throw the big machine in reverse.

The police car was pursuing the truck down a narrow side road when the driver put the truck in reverse and jumped out. The police car was damaged, but the officer escaped injury.

The driver of the runaway truck escaped on foot, police said.

Low minimum wage the nation's supreme shame

WASHINGTON — Maybe you think the Watergate scandals, with all those indictments, convictions and pleadings of guilt, are the great outrage of American life.

Well, I don't.

Rowan

To me, the supreme shame is to hold the minimum wage at $1.60 an hour in this era when hot dogs are $1.20 a pound and ground beef goes at 99 cents, pork chops at a buck, bread at 40 cents, even in the bargain places.

This minimum wage law is ludicrous and in no way serves the cause of economic justice.

Mind you, now, $1.60 an hour is $64 a week. That's about enough for a good three-man business luncheon for some of us expense-account types — but try stretching $64 to provide a week of food, shelter, clothing, recreation for a family of four.

It just can't be done.

And that is why President Nixon's veto last September of a measure which would have raised the minimum wage was so cruelly tragic. What is even sadder, the supposed new spirit of compromise in the White House may produce a new minimum wage that already has been rendered shamefully inadequate by some unprecedented increases in the cost of just about everything the average American family needs.

Labor Secretary Peter Brennan is proud to tell us that President Nixon has recanted, so to speak. He's now willing to go along with a minimum wage of $2 an hour (or $80 per week for the laborer, which is just about what the President takes in per hour, not counting colossal fringe benefits). And in a spirit of generosity, Mr. Nixon is willing to tolerate a law guaranteeing every worker at least $2.30 an hour by Jan. 1, 1976.

Well, temper that generosity a bit. The President, for all his need of new friends, is not of a mind to let people under 18 or household workers get a claim on $2 an hour.

Almost a million women, many of whom head families, work in households at a national average pay of less than $1 an hour. But the President wants to do them a "favor." He is going to prevent any coverage of them by the minimum wage law on grounds that people who hire cooks, cleaning ladies, yard men and the sort would rather throw them on welfare and do the work themselves than pay $2 an hour.

As one whose parents did "domestic" labor, as one who did a lot of domestic work himself until liberated by World War II, I say the overwhelming majority of household workers don't want "job security" that is based on the maintenance of slave wages. They would rather eat sawdust with a splinter than be locked into the present kind of servitude.

Then, despite the fact that his proposed new "minimum" as of 1976 means only $4.784 a year, which probably will not reach the official poverty level, President Nixon wants to subject workers under 18 to a lower level of guaranteed pay. Organized labor is squawking for good reason: this country is full of employers who will hire 17-year-olds and release them with bold monotony on their 18th birthdays to avoid having to pay higher wages to adult workers.

It cannot be a secret to any reasonably perceptive observer that this society is in trouble. Members of Congress know it, so it is more than concern about voter reaction which makes them worry about raising their own pay to $52,000 a year. Let us hope their concern flows from a knowledge that a wider measure of economic and social justice is essential if we are to halt the bombings, kidnappings, shootings which result from economic desperation and political madness.

Some of the things we deplore are beyond easy solution. But there is no excuse for congressional inaction on a matter as fundamental as minimum wages.

The House and Senate ought to move speedily to put another bill before the President which sets a decent minimum and treats young workers and "domestics" the way other citizens are treated: as human beings trying to earn their own way under very difficult circumstances.

Views on the causes to impeach

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON — The House of Representatives can impeach President Nixon for almost any reason it chooses. In early American impeachments, in fact, the articles were not prepared until after impeachment had been voted on.

Cromley

But political reality being what it is in this 1974 election year, when all members of the House must face gravely concerned voters and explain their actions, Congress most certainly must decide some thorny constitutional questions before a majority will likely be willing to vote yea or nay on indicting the President of the United States.

These are the problems:
✓ Can a president be charged for the actions of his subordinates?

James Madison argues yes. It would, Madison said "... subject him to impeachment himself if he suffers them to perpetuate with impunity high crimes or misdemeanors against the United States, or neglects to superintend their conduct, so as to check their excesses."

But Elbridge Gerry, another framer of the Constitution, disagreed, arguing subordinate officers should bear their own responsibility.

✓ Can a president be removed from office because he has, in the minds of the majority of the House and two-thirds of the Senate, exhibited such habitual disregard of the public interest that his actions have cost him the confidence of the nation to such a degree he can no longer govern effectively?

Time and again, in the 13 instances in which U.S. officials have been impeached, this charge has been made and strongly argued. However, the fact that only four of the 13 were convicted does not speak strongly for the practical effectiveness of this charge.

✓ Can a president legitimately be removed for defying the will of Congress and, if he can, how serious must that defiance be?

President Andrew Johnson was charged with having failed to respect the prerogatives of Congress in removing Edwin M. Stanton as secretary of war; the issue was whether the President or Congress should have the constitutional and military power to make and enforce Reconstruction policy in the South.

In British history, where the impeachment article in the U.S. constitution has its roots, impeachment was used regularly to increase the power of Parliament and to clip the power of the King. That is, Parliament regularly removed those ministers who most effectively advanced the King's will.

✓ Can a president be held liable for impeachment for evading taxes and did Mr. Nixon in fact willfully evade his proper share?

✓ Can a president properly be removed on such difficult-to-define but important charges as subverting the democratic process? If he can, how can such actions be defined. Are the individual charges of great import, or is it rather, as has been held in numbers of previous U.S. impeachments, the entire course of his conduct in office.

These constitutional points will be of little importance, of course, if the House determines that Mr. Nixon has been guilty of criminal acts, or has participated in the obstruction of justice.

It should be noted that actual crime will be exceedingly difficult to prove. The constitutional points outlined above are, in the main, so subjective that a Congressman, whichever way he votes, will find his actions almost impossible to explain to many of his constituents. It is therefore easy to understand how both Mr. Nixon and former Attorney-General Elliot Richardson can both be convinced that in the end there will be no impeachment.

Free parking for the aged

May I respectfully request that Sedalia drivers past the age of 65 be exempted from paying meter charges in downtown Sedalia.

It wouldn't bankrupt the city, and I'm quite sure that Sedalians affected by the measure would spend more money with our downtown merchants.

It would just be a matter of Sedalia drivers past 65 applying for a free-parking sticker and placing it on the rear glass of their cars if the proposal meets with the approval of the City Council.

Any violation of the provisions specified in the exemption measure would result in immediate revocation of the permit.

Law change leads to new confusion

You can't legislate morality, it's said. Neither can you legislate instant social change. Or if you do, there are always unforeseen consequences.

In Ohio, for example, following ratification of the 26th Amendment giving the vote to 18-year-olds, legislators decided to go all the way and lower the age of majority to 18. The law, which went into effect the first of the year, has already raised a number of ticklish questions.

A lot of 18-year-olds are still in high school and officials are wondering, among other things, whether they may now sign their own excuses for being absent.

Of a more serious nature, however, is the plight of welfare families with children between 18 and 21 who are still in school. Previously, such children were eligible for Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) money, but because the law no longer recognizes them as children the payments were cut off.

The payments have been restored temporarily by virtue of a court order granted the Legal Aid Society, pending passage of a relief bill now before the legislature.

In a statement on the question, the Ohio Department of Public Welfare has argued that "to help the ADC family and not the working family to pay for the education of their 18-to-21-year-olds would do a gross injustice to those working families."

A lawyer for the Legal Aid Society counters that "ADC helps people stay in school. Otherwise, you have another generation on welfare."

It all started with a well-intentioned, "simple" change in the law. (NEA)

Nixon looked hard for tax deductions

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Confidential White House documents show that President Nixon, contrary to the statements put out in his name, has taken an intense personal interest in wangling every possible tax deduction he could get away with.

He even inquired in 1969 about deducting his payments to his daughter Julie as a business expense. He wanted to count money he was contributing to her support as salary for her work as a White House tour guide. Yet the White House had already put out publicity that she was a "volunteer."

The President also wanted a tax break for using the den at his San Clemente estate for an office. He asked what tax write-offs were available, too, for permitting others to use his California and Florida houses.

He thought he should be permitted to charge off wedding gifts, funeral sprays and similar items, because he felt these were "business expenses" for a politician. Most of his entertaining, he also contended, should be deductible. "He wants to be sure," instructed aide John Ehrlichman in a confidential memo, "that his business deductions include all allowable items."

This differs with the picture the White House has tried to portray of a President too busy to bother with the details of his tax returns. Press spokesman Gerald Warren has implied Nixon was so preoccupied with the presidency that he left the preparation of his returns entirely to his lawyers.

The implication was that his lawyers were really to blame for claiming the controversial — and probably illegal — $576,000 tax deduction for the gift of the Nixon papers to the government.

Documents now in the hands of the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, however, prove that the President was not at all removed from the preparation of his returns. On the contrary, he pulled every possible string to increase his tax deductions.

Ehrlichman relayed the President's wishes to Edward Morgan, the White House aide who handled the President's taxes. For example, an Ehrlichman memo, dated June 16, 1972, asked Morgan:

"The President proposes to personally pay Julie for her work in the White House this summer and deduct it as a business expense. Would you please determine whether he can properly do this ..."

Morgan took the problem up with the Internal Revenue Service's deputy chief counsel Roger Barth who served as political impresario for Julie and Tricia Nixon during the 1968 campaign and is now the Nixon man inside the IRS.

Barth responded a month later with a memo, carefully stamped "Confidential," advising: "Legally we might justify deduction as a business expense for a salary paid to Julie as a tour guide this summer. However, for the following reasons, I MOST strongly recommend that this should not be done:

"(A) The amount involved is rather small;

"(B) This is always a factual question which could be raised on audit of whether she is necessary to the taxpayer's 'business';

"(C) In addition to federal withholding data which would get into the files at the IRS, information would have to be given to the (state) tax authorities and to the Social Security people. There are too many entities involved for this to be kept confidential;

"(D) The newspapers have made much of the fact that she has been acting as a 'volunteer.' I think the risk of exposure of a business deduction attempt is too great ..."

Barth advised instead that the President should "make a gift at the end of the summer to Julie. Although it would not be deductible to him, it would be tax-free to her."

The President apparently heeded this advice, for the White House press office tells us that the President never put Julie on salary.

In another memo, Ehrlichman asked Morgan: "The President intends to use the San Clemente house for official visits, and he intends to use his den as an office for presidential activities. What write-offs are available to him?"

Barth was also approached on this question. He advised that "a deduction would be permitted for depreciation and maintenance expenses."

Ehrlichman also wanted to know about "the tax consequences of permitting others to use the Florida and California houses." Barth responded: "We would have to establish the business purpose for the President with regard to each person invited to use the homes."

On the question of deductions for wedding gifts, funeral sprays and the like, Ehrlichman noted: "The President holds the view that a public man does very little of a personal nature. Virtually all of his entertainment and activity is related to his 'business.'"

Agreed Barth: "I personally agree with the idea that much of the President's expense is related to his 'business.' As with the business use of his residence, a careful system must be established for keeping track of business expenses ..."

"Small gifts by the President, which are related to his 'business,' would be deductible ... Note, however, that we must give thought to distinguishing between activities and gifts related to 'being a President' and those related to running for reelection."

Richard Nixon, as we now know, took every available legal deduction and at least one $576,000 write-off whose legality is questionable.

Backgammon game for all

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you are considered a sure thing to trump your partner's ace or if you can't quite dig chess or the strategy of checkers, you may still be a winner at backgammon.

So says world champion player Tim Holland, 41, a stockbroker.

"You don't need to feel insecure playing a superior player as you do with most other games because the element of luck is involved, one reason for the game's increasing popularity," he says.

Holland was discussing the ancient game, a favorite of the Greeks, Romans and Persians, and why it took so long to catch on in the United States. It was sequestered in the tight inner circles of the dinner-dress crowd, he says. Now it is played in restaurants, living rooms, ski huts, beach houses and back yards.

"Women like it because they do not have to take the time to study and become experts to feel comfortable playing it. It is a wonderful husband and wife game," he insists.

The game's appeal for busy Americans may be also that it can be terminated in five minutes if necessary. But you can play for five hours or five days if you have the time, he points out.

Fifteen stones (men) are moved around the 24 points on a board at the roll of a dice. It need not be a fancy board — the back of a dime-store checker board often has a layout. One need not be a master of strategy as might be required in other games and the best player doesn't win all the time.

Holland has been beaten by amateurs, including his own 12-year-old son, Tim, who lives with his wife, now Mrs. Johnny Carson.

The almost-even chance of winning satisfies the American's yen for gambling with play stakes or real money. A player sensing victory can double, re-double and re-double, adding intrigue to the play. It is an easy game to learn. It takes only about 10 minutes, according to Holland's beautiful wife, Lona.

Holland had been asked so many thousands of questions about the game, however, that he wrote a book, "Beginning Backgammon" and devised a self-teaching game, Autobackgammon. The 60 games involving 2,700 moves are indelibly impressed on his mind, he says. It took him 600 hours to put it together.

Tournaments sizzle with suspense without the tension of strategy games like chess. You can become a better backgammon player by playing with super players — there is skill involved — but "two equalized players" are on an even-stein basis because of the element of luck, he says.

Holland began playing tournaments in 1967 and has had some phenomenal winning streaks. He retired London's Claremont Club's tournament cup by winning three years in succession, much to the club's consternation — they had expected the handsome trophy to be intact, perhaps for generations.

Right now Calcutta Auctions are adding to the excitement. Bits of players or whole players in a tournament are bought by bidders.

Up until five-or-so years ago the game was being played mainly in posh Fifth Avenue drawing rooms or such clubs as the Everglades in Palm Beach, he says. The tiara set wanted a game "nobody else played." And that idea started in old England in the days of Richard the Lionhearted when one had to gain permission to play the game.

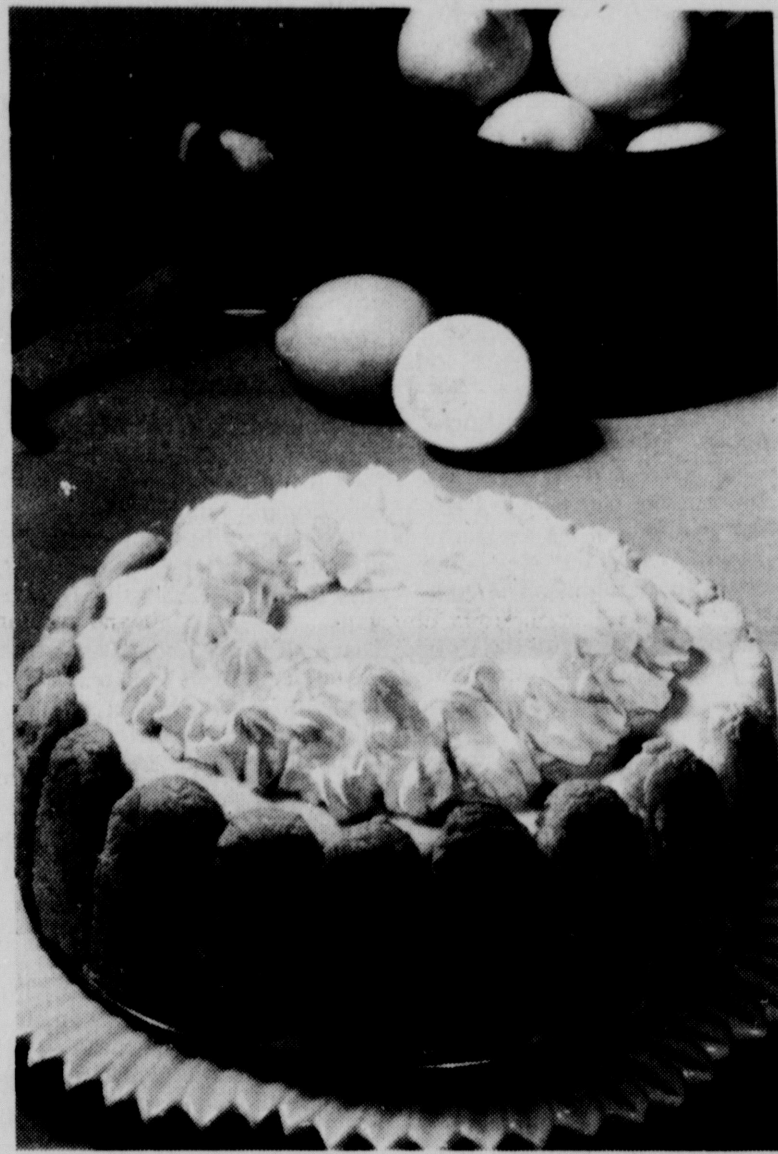

Now restaurants and hotels encourage the game. At El Morocco, the New York club, a player pays $30 for backgammon, drinks, dinner and dancing. In fact, interior designer Ellen McCluskey kept the game well in mind when she refurbished the club a few years ago, providing a cozy area upstairs for the gaming teams.

A "Charlotte russe" is a classic, cold dessert. A Charlotte basically means a framework of biscuits or sliced bread with a sweet filling. Traditionally Ladyfingers are used for this attractive and enticing treat.

FRESH LEMON CHARLOTTE RUSSE

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- 1 1/2 cups sugar, divided
- 4 eggs, separated
- 1/2 cup fresh lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 1/2 teaspoons grated fresh lemon rind
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Ladyfingers
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- Whipped cream, optional

Mix gelatine and 1 cup sugar in top of double boiler. Beat egg yolks with lemon juice and salt; stir into gelatine mixture. Cook over simmering water, stirring constantly, until thickened, about 10 minutes. Stir in butter, lemon rind and vanilla. Chill until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Line bottom and sides of a 9-inch spring form pan with split ladyfingers. In large mixing bowl beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Gradually add remaining 1/2 cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold egg whites and whipped cream into lemon mixture. Turn into spring form pan. Chill several hours, or until firm. Garnish with whipped cream, if desired. (NEA)

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those mail order companies who send out more and more catalogues each year. They flood the poor mail service and then write almost insulting letters if you have not made a recent purchase. To add insult to injury they offer almost unbelievable sweepstakes in which you are sure (?) to win a fabulous prize.

Surely three catalogues a year is enough for any company. I have reached the point where I am almost ready to mark off my list any company that sends more than four "wish" books per year or who write me one of those "personal" form letters. This complaint is also for others who feel as I do. — DORA

Family affair

Bobby Unser beats brother Al to checker

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — Bobby Unser has a secret and he won't even tell his brother how he was fast enough to nip him by fifty-eight hundredths of a second in the closest 500-mile race climax in U.S. Auto Club history.

Bobby Unser, 40, and 34-year-old Al Unser made the fifth annual California 500 a family affair for the last 275 miles Sunday at Ontario Motor Speedway.

"He just played a cat-and-mouse game with me," said Al. "My car started popping at the end when I kicked up the turbo-charger boost trying to catch him."

Bobby Unser, who earned $70,250 of the $300,000 purse, said he didn't have the same cockpit device that Al and some other drivers use to turn up turbocharger boost. He would only say:

"I did have a little trick that amounted to a little more speed ... but I really don't care to elaborate."

Bobby Unser, who averaged 157.017 miles per hour in a race slowed for 30 laps by seven yellow flags, won the closest Cal 500 since Jim McElreath's three-fourths of a second victory over the late Art Pollard in the inaugural 1970 race.

Bobby, 1968 Indianapolis 500 winner, tied two-time Indy winner Al for highest number of 500 milers won in a family. But they said they've run just as closely in the past in shorter races.

Al drives for Val's-Parnelli Jones' team while Bobby works for Dan Gurney's All-American Racers.

Al Unser, who changed leads with his brother nine times, earned $58,800, including $250 per lap for leading 106 laps.

Bobby led 66 laps and quipped, "I followed Al all day. He won all the lap money ..."

A.J. Foyt, the fastest qualifier by five miles per hour, led until a broken oil line forced him out after only 21 turns around the 2.5-mile course. A piece of debris from the car of David "Salt" Walther lodged in Foyt's suspension and broke the oil line.

Walther finished 22nd and earned $1,600 making his first start since a pile-up at Indianapolis almost took his life.

Joe Leonard, 1971 Cal 500 winner, was responsible for an 11-lap caution period Sunday when he suffered a compound fracture of his left ankle as his Parnelli-Offy hit the pit wall and careened down the track after 152 laps. It was the worst injury accident in Cal 500 history.

Sixteen of the 33-car field were running at the end but only the Unseers were moving on the final lap. Jerry Grant was a distant third in USAC's first race run under a 280-gallon limit per car of methanol fuel.

Gurney said his driver averaged 1.9 miles per gallon and Ozzie Olson, Bobby's sponsor, said there were 4.7 gallons left. Al Unser said he didn't check how much he had left. Grant reported he had nearly 15 gallons remaining.

Although the race had an exciting finish, Bobby said fuel restrictions made it less of a competition and urged that more fuel be allotted in the future. Methanol fuel is not derived from petroleum, so the energy crisis isn't involved. USAC reduced fuel to cut speeds for safer racing.

Point records fall in Jayhawks romp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"We wanted to play, but we can't win against that kind of team with that kind of tempo," said Missouri Coach Norm Stewart after his Tigers lost to Big Eight Conference champion Kansas by a record 112-76 margin.

"I was worried before the game about a possible let-down," said Ted Owens of Kansas, conference coach of the year. "But we were in a good frame of mind."

In other games on the conference's final weekend, Iowa State, perhaps spurred by a surprise appearance by ailing Coach Maury John, dumped Nebraska 76-58 and Oklahoma State surprised Oklahoma 70-67.

The results left these final conference standings:

Kansas, 13-1; Kansas State, 11-3; Oklahoma, 9-5; Nebraska, 7-7; Iowa State, 6-8; Colorado, 4-10; and Missouri and Oklahoma State, both 3-11.

The 112 points at Lawrence set an Allen Fieldhouse record. The previous standard was 110 by the Jayhawks against Ne-

Rick Suttle's 20 points topped KU but all-conference Al Eberhard took scoring honors with 27 points.

At Ames, John, who missed the Cyclones last 19 games because of treatment for a tumor, was given a three-minute ovation at the start of the ISU-Nebraska tilt.

Robert Wilson responded with 16 points and 16 rebounds and Wes Harris had 14 points and 12 rebounds to spark Iowa State. Rick Marsh had 14 for the Cornhuskers.

In Stillwater, Kevin Fitzgerald wound up his collegiate career and perhaps celebrated St. Patrick's Day early by scoring a field goal and a pair of free throws in the last minute to give the Cowboys their victory.

Fitzgerald had 14 points to push his career total to 1,220, third on the OSU list, but 5-foot-11 freshman guard Ronnie Daniels topped the Cowboys with 18 points. OU's Alvan Adams had 28 points.

But the talk of the conference was Kansas, which heads for the National Collegiate Athletic Association regional tournament in Tulsa Thursday. Kansas is matched against Creighton in the first round.

"Kansas just beat us inside something ferocious," MU's Stewart said. "They just shot extremely well." The Jayhawks were successful on 50 of 86 field goal attempts.

Eberhard ended second on MU's career scoring list with 1,377 points. "Al Eberhard had a great career," said Stewart. "I'm extremely proud of this young man."

Southwest Missouri is 19-8; Kentucky Wesleyan finished at 21-6.

Trio catches three lunkers

BRANSON — Dan Wolf Jr., 1417 West 11th, Allen Brosch, 1812 West 18th and Dan Wolf Sr., Walnut Hills, ushered in the trout season in fine fashion Saturday at Lake Taneycomo near here.

The four came back with three lunkers. Brosch caught a four and one-half pounder, as well as a three-pounder. Dan Wolf Jr. caught a three-pound, six-ounce lunker. He also caught a two and one-half pounder.

Dan Wolf Sr. didn't get a lunker, but did catch one that went one and one-half pounds. All three fishermen were using salmon eggs.

Giants young, but mature

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "The best way to describe our players is that they're eager," says Bobby Bonds who, at 27, is one of the oldest San Francisco Giants.

"The past few years, we've had speed and experience. Now we don't have as much of that experience," he added.

Willie Mays left two years ago. Willie McCovey and Juan Marichal have been traded off since the 1973 season ended.

Manager Charlie Fox figures to field a starting lineup averaging 25½ years in age, with 30-year-old second baseman Tito Fuentes the senior member of the team and Bonds the second oldest player on the roster.

"But I say they've matured. We're going to win it this year and we're going to win it for a long time to come," Fox said before opening spring training.

If the Giants can improve their pitching considerably, their manager's prediction just might come true. The team was third in the National League's Western Division last season when the Giants scored 4½ runs per game and the pitching staff had a 3.79 earned-run average.

The defending division champion Cincinnati Reds, Fox adds, "are in the same boat as us. If certain pitchers don't come through, they're going to be in trouble."

In the Giants' case, 24-game winner Ron Bryant and Tom Bradley, 13-12 last year, are considered sure starters. Half a dozen less experienced pitchers are battling in spring training for the other starting jobs.

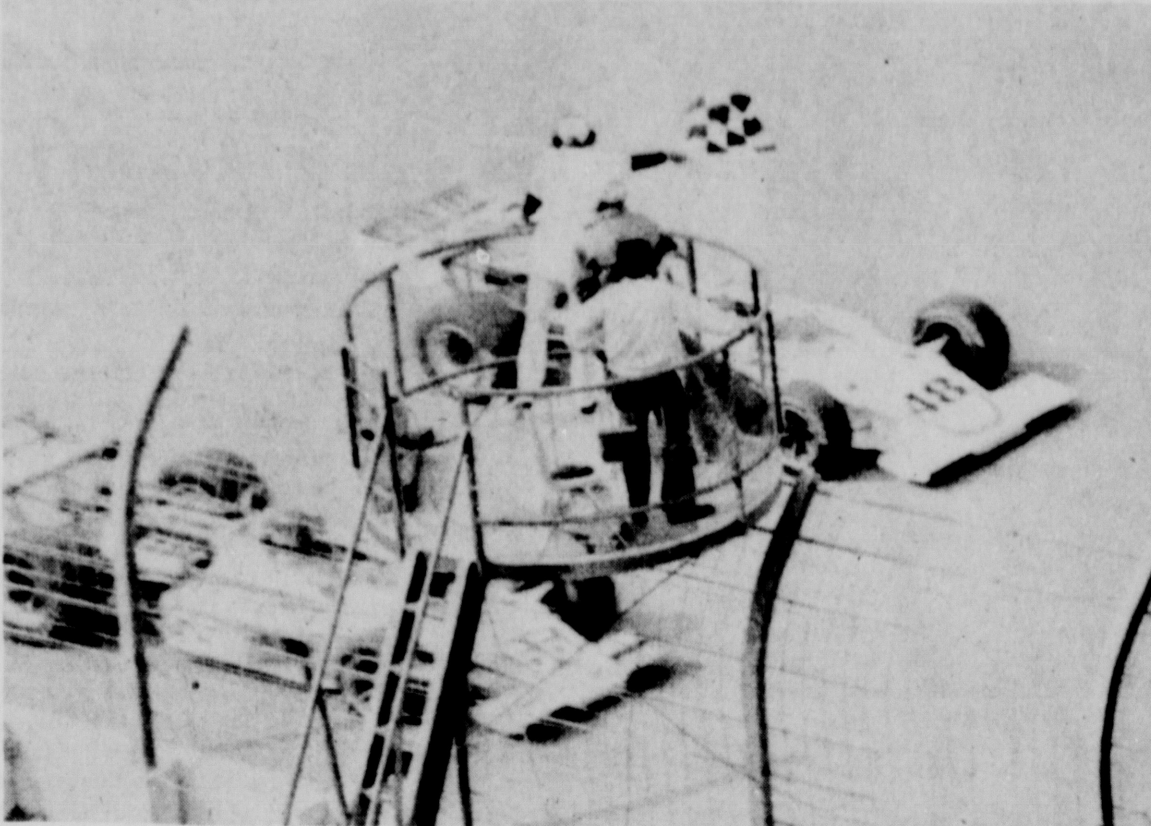

Catching is the Giants' other weak spot. Dave Rader, after an impressive rookie season, fell off to a .229 batting average in 1973 and backup catcher Mike Sadek hit .167.

Fox can talk pennant without drawing snickers, however, because he has some of the best young hitting prospects in baseball at other positions.

First baseman Ed Goodson, left fielder Gary Matthews and center fielder Garry Maddox all hit over .300 last year, the first full big-league season for each. Third baseman Dave Kingman, although riding the bench part of the season, slugged 24 home runs, including 13 in a 21-game stretch late in the year.

Bonds has established himself as one of the game's top all-round players. He belted 39 homers, drove in 96 runs and hit .283 despite a September slump.

Matthews, Maddox and Bonds comprise what is probably the fastest outfield in baseball. In Fuentes and shortstop Chris Speier, the Giants have one of the game's best double-play combinations.

Checker flies for Bobby

The finish flag waves for Bobby Unser in car No. 48 as he laps Jerry Grant in the No. 55 car at the finish line of the California Sunday in Ontario, Calif.

Unser won over a field of 33 cars to capture the fifth-annual event. His average speed was 157.017 miles per hour. (UPI)

Royals off to quick start

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — The Kansas City Royals, refreshed by opening exhibition victories over the Chicago White Sox, welcomed the National League champion Cincinnati Reds to camp Monday.

The Grapefruit League wins Saturday and Sunday reflected strong mound and plate performances for the Royals, who beat the Sox 9-3 and 6-1.

Righthanders Marty Pattin, Bruce Dal Canton and Gene Garber, each working three innings Saturday, limited Chicago to six hits while the Royals produced 12.

On Sunday, Steve Busby, Paul Splittorff and Doug Bird surrendered only five hits. The Royals stroked 11.

Manager Jack McKeon was exuberant over the base-running of Al Cowens, who also had an impressive day at bat with three hits in five trips.

MOBERLY — Moberly Area Junior College, which has a one-game lead in the best-of-three games series that will determine the Missouri representative to the national junior college basketball tournament in Hutchinson, Kan., can wrap up the Region XVI (state) crown tonight.

Bartow to Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Gene Bartow, college basketball coach of the year in 1973, was named head coach at the University of Illinois after resigning as head coach at Memphis State University.

In the fourth inning, Cowens smashed a liner to left to score two runners and surprised Sox left fielder Jerry Hairston by continuing to third base without breaking stride.

"I could see that he was going to throw to second so I just kept going," Cowens, who played last year in Jacksonville, said.

"A play like that is instinct," McKeon said later. Most guys would have had to stop and look, but not Cowens. ... I like what I've seen of his bat, too. I know it's early, but he's going to have to play himself off this team."

If Cowens stays with the Royals, he would play in right field.

Bob Gibson takes mound for St. Louis Cardinals

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Ageless Bob Gibson was to try his trusted right arm a first time Monday as the St. Louis Cardinals took on the Detroit Tigers in a spring training exhibition baseball game.

The trial for the 38-year-old Gibson, sidelined 55 days last summer by a knee injury, followed a strong stint Sunday by right-hander Lynn McGlothen in relief.

McGlothen, who followed left-hander John Curtis to the mound, restricted the New York Mets to one hit over four innings and helped the Cards rally to a 6-5 win. Mets outfielder Cleon Jones poked a two-run double and first baseman John Milner followed with a home run before the Cards came back.

Ken Reitz' single tied for the Cards at 5-5 in the ninth, then non-roster first baseman doubled home the winning run.

The victory squared the Cards' Grapefruit League record at 1-1. A day earlier Mets left-handers Jon Matlack, Jerry Koesman and Tug McGraw had combined to stop the Cards 4-1.

Dierker, Kline tough on mound

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON, AP Sports Writer

In spring training, it's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game ... and Larry Dierker and Steve Kline played it pretty well Sunday for a couple of sore-armed pitchers.

Dierker, the only 20-game winner in Houston's major league baseball history, allowed one hit in three strong innings as the Astros beat the Montreal Expos 5-1 in an exhibition game.

The 27-year-old hurler was limited to 14 appearances last season with a 1-1 record and 4.33 earned run average because of hand and shoulder problems.

Cesar Cedeno drove in two of the Houston runs with a triple and sacrifice fly.

Kline, meanwhile, was nicked for four hits in three innings, including Earl Williams' first-inning two-run homer, in the New York Yankees' 4-2 loss to the Baltimore Orioles. But he, too, was a most happy fellow afterwards.

The 26-year-old sinkerballer was expected to be the ace of the Yankee staff last year, but a tender elbow limited him, too, to 14 appearances, a 4-7 record and a 4.01 ERA.

"I couldn't be happier," he said Sunday after recording six outs on ground balls, his specialty. "Heck, it didn't hurt. That's all I care about."

Another pitcher with a lesser problem — Tom Seaver of the New York Mets — also recorded passing grades in his first spring outing. The National League's Cy Young Award winner, bothered by a tender shoulder late last season, allowed one run and two hits in three innings of the Mets' 6-5 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cards, who fell behind 4-0 in the first inning, won it with two runs in the ninth on Ken Reitz' game-tying single and Keith Hernandez' tie-breaking double.

Kansas State will meet Bradley in first round

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Southern Cal's Trojans, despite an 82-52 reversal Saturday night, is the team to beat in the Collegiate Commissioners Association Basketball Tournament beginning Thursday.

Tourney officials drew pairings Sunday and tabbed the seventh-ranked team, which has a 22-4 record, to play unbeaten Southern Methodist (15-11) in the opening round.

The game will be the second on a first round card to follow one between Arizona State (18-8) and Toledo (18-8) in the tournament's upper bracket.

Lower bracket games Friday night pit either Michigan (20-4) or Indiana (20-4) of the Big Ten Conference against Tennessee (17-6) and Big Eight Conference runnerup Kansas State (19-7) against Bradley (19-7) of the Missouri Valley.

The tournament for the most part is made up of teams finishing second in major conference title races.

Meet semifinals are scheduled for Sunday afternoon and a single championship game for next Monday night. USC represents the Pacific 8, Southern Methodist the Southwest, Arizona State the Western Athletic, Toledo the Mid-American and Tennessee the Southeast.

Connors, Evert capture crowns

By The Associated Press — Jimmy Connors and Chris Evert, tennis' young lovers, each won $10,000 on opposite sides of the nation Sunday, then headed for St. Louis and a one-week rest, while Australia's powerful World Cup team, having continued its domination of the United States, headed for parts unknown.

The 21-year-old Connors took the top prize in the Coliseum Mall International Championships at Hampton, Va., upending topseeded Ilie Nastase 6-4, 6-4 for only his second victory in 10 meetings against the fiery Romanian.

The 19-year-old Miss Evert duplicated the victory by her fiancé, overwhelming defending champion Virginia Wade of Britain 7-5, 6-2 for the title in the Maureen Connolly Brinker Ladies Championships at Dallas.

And at Hartford, Conn., the Aussie team of Rod Laver, John Newcombe, Ken Rosewall and Tony Roche completed a 5-2 triumph over the U.S. squad of Stan Smith, Marty Riessen, Dennis Ralston, Arthur Ashe and Tom Gorman for its fourth victory in five World Cup encounters with the Americans. Of the Aussies, only Newcombe made known his immediate plans, saying he was taking a week off before resuming play on the World Championship Tennis tour.

Connors, seeded second, made several spectacular passing shots against Nastase, but it was a surprising number of errors committed by the Romanian that decided the match. Nastase had break points only three times in the match, all in the sixth game of the second set, but each time, the cool Connors snapped back with a good placement at the net and got out of trouble.

Connors' $10,000 first place prize — plus the $40,000 he was guaranteed for reaching the final — boosted his season's winnings to $76,700.

The angry Nastase, claiming he was upset by the partisan crowd, said afterward he would not compete with the WCT next year, but would participate in an independent players' tour.

Wins zone title

BOGOTA, Colombia — South Africa won the South American zone Davis Cup title as Frew McMillan and Bob Hewitt rallied for a 7-9, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Chile's Patricio Cornejo and Jaime Fillol.

Title to Borg

GOTEBORG, Sweden — Bjorn Borg defeated Douglas Plam 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, 6-0 and won the men's singles title at the Swedish National Tennis Championships.

Pasarell over Dibbs

CARACAS, Venezuela — Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico beat Eddie Dibbs of Miami 6-7, 6-2, 6-1 for the men's singles title in the Altamira International Tennis Tournament.

Yogi Berra went hitless in his first seven at bats in his first two World Series games in 1947. Then in game three he hit a home run as a pinch hitter.

Third PGA victory

Allin outclasses Doral field

MIAMI (AP) — "It was an unexpected pleasure," Buddy Allin said.

"I was just trying to hang in there and make a good check. I didn't think I had any chance of winning. There were just too many good players up there and I was just trying to hang on."

But, one by one, some of pro golf's great players fell victim to the waters, woods and woes that make up the 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club, and the tough little Allin emerged as the winner of the Doral-Eastern

Open Sunday.

Allin, who won numerous decorations as an artillery officer in Vietnam, had a final round 67 and his 272 total was 16-under-par and a record for the course that gobbled up the challenges of Tom Weiskopf, Jerry Heard, Australian Bruce Devlin and Bobby Nichols.

Heard, a winner a week ago, finished second with a 68-273. He lost his last chance for victory when he sliced his drive into the gallery on the 18th fairway, hit a woman spectator in the head and bogeyed the hole.

Devlin, tied for the lead a couple of times in the scramble down the stretch, fell back with a bogey from a bunker on the 17th, had a 71 and tied for third with countryman Bruce Crampton at 274. Crampton made a par-saving putt on the 18th hole for a 68.

Next came Bert Yancey, who closed with a 65, and Weiskopf tied at 275. Weiskopf, tied for the lead as late as the 16th hole of the final round, finished bogey-double bogey and had a 72. He drove into the woods on the 17th and put one in the water on the 18th.

Tom Kite, whose 29 on the front side marked the best nine holes of the year on the pro tour, had a 65 and tied Nichols at 276. Nichols had a 70 with a double bogey six on the 16th that killed his chances.

Lee Trevino, who scored his last victory in this tournament a year ago, closed with a 69 but was too far back to catch up. His 277 total was two strokes better than Jack Nicklaus, who had a 70.

The victory was Allin's third in his four years on the pro tour and was worth $30,000 from the total purse of $150,000.

Jim: "The classic case of correct play of second hand high is when dummy has a high card that will be worthless unless played right away."

Oswald: "If today's hand were played in a duplicate game the chances are that every South player would be declarer at three notrump." Jim: "Most West players would open the six of spades and every declarer would look at that card with the expression of a man seeing a coiled rattlesnake."

Oswald: "Eventually they would all call for the king from dummy. The king would hold. The rattlesnake would turn out to have been harmless and declarer would proceed to rattle off the next 10 tricks before conceding the last two to the defense."

Beef exports to Japan rising

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exports of high-quality U.S. beef to Japan are rising substantially this year, perhaps four times that of 1973 shipments, the agriculture department said Monday.

Such sales would represent less than one per cent of U.S. beef production, said a report

Missouri to receive more gas in March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest federal gasoline allocations give all but five states a better start in March than they got in February.

The allocations, announced last Thursday by the Federal Energy Office, should release about 6 per cent more gasoline daily in March than was available in February before the energy office stepped in with emergency supplies late in the month.

Kansas and Oklahoma are among the five states getting decreases in per-day gasoline supply, but the five all have unusually high supplies already. Kansas takes an 8 per cent decrease, and Oklahoma a 9 per cent cut.

Missouri and Nebraska are among 16 states getting extra allocations in March because their supplies are less than about 84 per cent of their basic demand. Nebraska gets 18.8 per cent more and Missouri 14.3 per cent.

Iowa, among 20 states whose supplies appear above average, will get a 2.7 per cent increase.

Well-known capitol city figure dies

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Carl "Buck" Walz, well-known figure in the capitol city, is dead at 75.

He died in Memorial Hospital where he had been for 10 days after suffering a stroke.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Freeman's Funeral Home. The Rev. G. Nelson Duke will officiate.

Walz, friend of governors, legislators and congressmen, regularly held court in his capitol basement office during morning coffee sessions.

Former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes would drop down from his second-floor office. Walz' office was a favorite gathering place for Democratic party leaders and newsmen.

Walz retired a year ago as head of surplus property management in the planning and construction office under the Hearnes administration.

He formerly was chief of police and city councilman in Jefferson City and served as Cole County sheriff.

A veteran Jefferson City newsman described Walz as "one of the last of the old-time ward politicians."

Secret Service life recounted

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rufus W. Youngblood rose through the ranks to become deputy director of the Secret Service, but he is best remembered as the agent who heard shots in the Dallas motorcade and almost instinctively flung himself over Lyndon B. Johnson to protect the Vice President.

Youngblood, who has just turned 50, retired in 1971 after 20 years with the Secret Service — an early retirement he blames on the fact that although he served five presidents, he was closest to Johnson. He says some members of the Nixon administration resent this.

In retirement, Youngblood has written a book about the Secret Service, "20 Years in the Secret Service: My Life With Five Presidents."

In it, Youngblood says all five presidents he observed had a fatalistic attitude about the possibility of assassination. Discussing the findings of the Warren Commission, whose conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in killing President Kennedy he concurs with, Youngblood writes:

"The Secret Service could study forever on the security of presidential protection, and even if it came up with the perfect assassin-proof device, there would remain the even more difficult task of getting the President to use it."

He elaborated during an interview. "The political mission and the security mission by their very nature conflict," he said.

"The safest place for a President to give a speech is within the confines of the White House. That may be highly successful from the security standpoint, but he'll flunk the course as a politician. You end up, I think, compromising between the two. You try to create a secure environment within the realm of possibility and still allow the President to operate."

Political considerations include more than just whether a President is seen in public, Youngblood indicated. There's also the matter of presidential vanity: how does he look while he's being seen?

"To give a for instance, how about something like body armor," he suggested. "You try to get a President to wear a bullet-proof flak vest or something like that. He wouldn't do it — not unless they get that stuff down as slim as Fruit of the Loom."

A tall, balding man whose Georgia origins are still very much evident in his accent, Youngblood said he liked all five Presidents personally. He was closest to Johnson but wouldn't name him as a favorite — nor does Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy or Nixon get singled out above the others.

"You really do get to like these people when you're going around with them," the author

Nixon tax return said being probed

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsweek magazine says President Nixon's 1969 income tax return is the subject of a criminal fraud investigation by the Internal Revenue Service.

Quoting unnamed sources, the magazine said that "in recent weeks, the IRS special intelligence agents, who only do criminal investigations, have interviewed Edward L. Morgan, a one-time White House aide; Arthur Blech, Mr. Nixon's personal accountant, and Frank DeMarco, the President's former tax lawyer."

"The key question is whether a fraudulent deed to Mr. Nixon's vice presidential papers was drawn up in the spring of 1970 to make it appear he had actually given the papers to the archives one year earlier — before congressional legislation outlawed deductions for such gifts," Newsweek said.

The President claimed a $576,000 deduction for donating the papers to the national archives.

The magazine said DeMarco has testified "he had a new deed typed up and had Morgan sign it on the President's behalf in April 1970, but he insists that the new version was only a copy of an original he drew up the year before."

The 1969 document has not been produced, however, Newsweek said.

IRS spokesmen have refused to comment on the inquiry and the White House says it has not been notified of a criminal investigation of the President, the magazine said. Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler is quoted saying the problem "goes to the preparation of the documents, not to any action of the President."

said. "And you don't see the political mistakes, if you want to call them that. You're not there to judge them or their actions. They're human beings and they're all good people."

Youngblood doesn't use his book to reveal the behind-the-scenes glimpses he had of the famous men. He prefers instead to talk about the Secret Service itself, its history, what it does and how, details on how various presidential trips were handled.

What never ceased to interest him, Youngblood said, was the job of protecting a President or Vice President. The job allows agents to be where history is being made, to travel around the world, to be exposed to new ideas and new information. Too, there is danger.

"The Secret Service agent on protective duty lives on the brink of disaster," Youngblood says in his book. "His job borders on the impossible."

In these politically tender days, Youngblood has some advice for agents whose proximity to high government officials sometimes makes them privy to important information that could be leaked to the media.

"If you're really smart," he says, "you'll try not to hear things. If you don't know it, you can't tell it. You can sometimes be smart by being dumb."

Nixon urges bicentennial rededication

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon has told a nationwide radio audience the country's 200th birthday in 1976 offers a unique opportunity for "a rededication to American values, as well as a reaffirmation of our strength and potential as a free people."

Nixon, in his talk Sunday from his bayside home here, said Americans "will have our share of disagreements and disappointments" but declared that "in our laws, in our ideals and in the character of the American people, we hold the keys to all the problems that confront us."

Nixon announced, as expected, that he will nominate Navy Secretary John Warner as head of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration. He ordered Warner to prepare an early report on birthday planning for presentation to the Cabinet.

"The bicentennial is not going to be invented in Washington, printed in triplicate by the Government Printing Office, mailed to you by the U.S. Postal Service and filed away in your public library," Nixon said.

"Instead, we shall seek to trigger a chain reaction of tens of thousands of individual celebrations — large and small — planned and carried out by citizens in every part of America."

There have been some complaints of false starts and sluggish performance in bicentennial planning.

The President, who flew here Friday with Mrs. Nixon, planned to return to Washington late Monday after taking part in a formal sendoff at nearby Homestead Air Force Base for Mrs. Nixon, bound for Venezuela and Brazil on a six-day goodwill mission.

Chaffee fire is preceded by explosion

CHAFFEE, Mo. (AP) — Firemen from several southeast Missouri communities assisted in battling a blaze which damaged or destroyed several buildings in downtown Chaffee early today.

Authorities said the fire was preceded by an explosion at about 4 a.m. in one of the buildings damaged by the blaze. Officers said a vacant bowling alley, liquor store and the Chaffee Plumbing and Heating building were damaged by the fire. A dress shop, beauty shop and Elks Lodge also received smoke damage.

Fire-fighting equipment from nearby Cape Girardeau, Sikeston, Oran, Scott City and Illinois was called in to fight the blaze.

Twelve persons were evacuated from nearby apartments as a precautionary measure, but no injuries were reported.

The blaze was brought under control at about 6 a.m.

Chaffee, a community of 3,000 persons, is located about 15 miles southwest of Cape Girardeau.

Termites attack seven out of 10 homes in the southern states, five out of 10 in the Midwest and two out of 10 in the North.

Status report on state legislature

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Legislature appears well ahead of last year's pace, when more than 100 bills were sent to the governor in the last two days and several major items were left hanging on the calendar at the midnight, June 15, adjournment.

Lawmakers returned to the Capitol Monday with seven weeks remaining before the April 30 adjournment this year.

High life in Bolivia problem

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — A visit to La Paz, one of the highest cities in the world, can be a breathtaking experience.

This city of 600,000 sits in a deep bowl 12,000 feet high and the airport is 2,000 feet higher. For visitors from sea-level, La Paz means an excruciating headache and stomach troubles because their systems cannot get enough oxygen.

Oxygen bottles are standard equipment in hotels for gasping guests, who suffer from "soroche," as altitude sickness is called here.

"I'd say that about 70 per cent of our guests ask for oxygen when they first arrive," said one local hotel employee. "Most of them are older people."

But doctors at the Bolivian Institute of Altitude Biology, a research organization supported by Bolivian and French funds, say most visitors have no problems after 15 days in La Paz.

The doctors at the institute, founded in 1964 after the late Charles DeGaulle visited Latin America, are studying the effects of altitude on humans, animals and plants to see how the results can help in other lower-level regions.

For example, notes Dr. Jean Coudert, codirector of the institute, Bolivians living at high altitudes for generations have few symptoms of heart ailments.

The heart attacks and hardening of the arteries that are common causes of death in the rest of the civilized world are almost unknown here, he said.

"There are many things that we do not understand about the effects of altitude on humans at this level," he said in an interview.

"After an altitude of around 10,000 feet one begins to experience physiological problems. But we do know that the people who have lived here all their lives are perfectly conditioned to cope with the altitude."

A visitor notes an immediate difference between the foreign tourists and native Bolivians, the majority of whom are either Aymara or Quechua Indians, walking on the streets.

The tourists normally have a pained expression on their faces as they plod up the steep city streets, short of breath.

The Indians, on the other hand, can trot for long periods with heavy loads on their backs without breathing hard.

Dr. Coudert said that there is just as much oxygen in the air here as at sea-level. But because of the lower pressure, visitors' lungs must work harder to get it.

The institute, one of the few of its kind in the world, has determined through examination of Bolivians living here that their lungs are much larger

While no bill has been sent to the governor during the regular session, many are on the verge of final passage.

Likely to be the first bill to land on the governor's desk is repeal of the personal property tax on household goods, approved by the voters in 1972.

The House and Senate passed bills a month ago to have the state reimburse local governments the estimated $14 million in revenue to be lost by the repeal. While he has not threatened a veto, Gov. Christopher S. Bond has appealed for legislators to approve some other method to replace the money.

State government reorganization and reinstatement of the death penalty, along with open meetings legislation, took up much time last year. Reorganization was passed in a two-month special session ending Feb. 1 and the death penalty has passed the House will come up in the Senate in a few weeks.

Also coming up in the Senate soon will be a bill to revise the closed records provision in the open meetings bill to give police more access to the arrest and conviction records.

Taking most of the time in the Senate have been bills to set a $2 minimum wage, which was defeated, and to provide full funding for Missouri Western and Missouri Southern State Colleges, which was defeated and then reconsidered for later action.

Occupying the most time in the House before passage has been a bill revising the formula for distributing state aid to schools, and it is likely to undergo long Senate debate because its high cost—$40 million to $70 million. The bill would not take effect until 1975-76.

Also on the House calendar is a bill setting a $2.10 minimum wage.

Another time-consuming and controversial issue to be debated in the House is a bill reforming the state's campaign spending laws.

It is one of seven bills placed on a special order of business calendar to be considered Tuesday morning.

The Senate sponsor of campaign reform, William Cason, D-Clinton has said he will concentrate on the House bill since his Senate measure would be too far down on the Senate calendar.

A slowdown move is expected in the Senate in April on the Equal Rights Amendment, which is 80th on the calendar for first-round approval. A House committee has not heard any testimony on the amendment yet despite the fact that 34 representatives signed the resolution.

Thirty-three of the necessary 38 states have ratified the amendment.

Legislators concede it's a "damned if you do and damned if you don't" situation on the ERA. There is a lot of pressure on both sides of the issue and many legislators are hoping they won't have to vote on it.

The situation is a little different on the death penalty bill. Although it has strong opposition, nearly every poll made public by legislators show overwhelming support for the death penalty.

It's still on the Missouri law books but is considered null because of U.S. Supreme Court decisions. The high court, however, left the way open for states to make capital punishment mandatory for certain crimes.

A bill to compensate persons who are injured while a crime is being committed has passed the House but may run into trouble in the Senate, where a similar bill got nowhere last year. However, the measure is sponsored by House Speaker Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, and the majority leader, Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, the most powerful men in the House.

Another major bill in good shape for passage is one to increase workmen's compensation benefits. It already has passed the Senate. No-fault auto insurance, which failed last year, is snaggled in a Senate committee but is on the House calendar.

State aid to public hospitals, vetoed by the governor last year, is on the special order calendar in the House.

Collective bargaining for public employees, unless it gets attached to another bill, appears dead. It was killed in the House.

The Senate has passed a bill that merges several state retirement systems and boosts legislators' retirement benefits.

A pay raise bill for most of the state's judges, also sponsored by Rabbitt and Rothman, has passed the House.

In good shape in both houses is a bill increasing legislators' pay from $8,400 to $12,000 a year. Like the Equal Rights Amendment, many legislators don't want to vote on it during an election year. Attempts to lower the proposed pay level to $10,000 a year are expected.

Harry S. Truman 'Portrait' tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Amid the revival of interest in former President Harry S. Truman, ABC tonight offers a "Portrait" special that deals with an incident when he was a judge in Missouri.

The show is concerned with his integrity and the Missouri-mule stubbornness that brought him to the presidency 16 years later.

Robert Vaughan stars in "Portrait: The Man From Independence." Arthur Kennedy is Tom Pendergast, and Martha Scott is Mama Truman.

As Truman's mother, Martha Scott—herself a native of that area of Missouri—portrays a wise and witty woman who was a strong influence in his life.

"Because I was from that area, I read the script with a certain nostalgia. A pain in a way," said Miss Scott, a film and stage actress for 30 years.

"I recognized my own grandmother in the role of Mrs. Truman and my own father sounded like Truman. He had that twang."

The role of mother is a familiar one for Miss Scott. She was Charlton Heston's mother in "Ben Hur" and "The Ten Commandments." She's Bob Newhart's mother on his series. She played Julie Sommers' mother in a recent pilot film. Last week she was a housemother in an ABC late-night mystery, "Sorority Kill." This Tuesday night she's Earl Holliman's mother on NBC's "Police Story."

"I don't mind playing mothers," she said, "not if the parts are good. I've been playing character parts since I was 27. I love a good character part. It's fine with me because it's meant a longer acting career. I'd hate to still be doing ingenues."

On Broadway, beginning with "Our Town," Miss Scott always had starring roles. She made the film version of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" and received an Academy Award nomination as best actress. Her plays included "Soldier's Wife," "The Voice of the Turtle," "The Male Animal" and "The Subject Was Roses."

Miss Scott helped found the Plumstead Playhouse to bring more stage plays to Los Angeles. The playhouse, of which she is president, was the first to revive "Front Page," which is now in vogue and is being made into a motion picture again.

Handclap record is claimed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A 12-year-old Jefferson City youngster, Chip Graves, is claiming a world's record for marathon handclapping.

"My hands are sore but I don't have any blisters," Chip said Sunday after clapping his hands from 9 a.m. Saturday until 12:30 a.m. Sunday.

But Chip said he'd probably only claim 15 hours and 15 minutes because his babysitter, Lois Sturm, fell asleep at 12:15 a.m.

To submit the claim to the Guinness Book of Records, Chip had to have a witness — his babysitter. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Graves, spent the weekend in Kansas City. Parents are not allowed as witnesses.

The record listed in the 1974 Guinness book was 14 hours, 31 minutes, Chip said. He matched that at 11:31 p.m. Saturday and is claiming 15 hours, 15 minutes.

He said he wanted to get his name in the book because "being best in the world at something is pretty neat."

Chip said he picked handclapping because "it seemed about the easiest record to break."

A newspaper reporter who visited the Graves' home Saturday said Chip's handclapping could be heard 200 yards away.

Chip's pace was counted at 147 claps a minute.

Charges in alleged kidnap plot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three persons, including a former follower of the Charles Manson family and a convicted skyjacker, have been charged in an alleged plot to kidnap a foreign consul general.

The FBI said it planned to file a 22-page affidavit with a U.S. magistrate detailing an attempt to kidnap a consul general from one of eight foreign nations to bargain for the release of a convicted airline hijacker and another jailed man.

Jailed pending arraignment today on a federal warrant charging conspiracy to kidnap was Maria Theresa Alonzo, 22, a former follower of Manson. Manson was convicted in the cult killing of actress Sharon Tate.

Also charged in the conspiracy case were Garrett Brock Trapnell, 36, the convicted skyjacker, already jailed; and Robert Bernard Hedberg Jr., 37, already jailed on charges of unlawful flight and assaulting a policeman.

The FBI said it broke up the plot Saturday afternoon with the arrest of Miss Alonzo at a Hollywood apartment. Sheriff's officers said her forehead still bore an "X," the symbol used by followers of Manson who performed a vigil outside the courthouse during his murder trial.

Trapnell and Hedberg were in the Los Angeles County Jail at the time of Miss Alonzo's arrest.

FBI spokesman John Barron said agents first learned of the kidnap attempt "through the cooperation of an individual who was to act as a coconspirator in the plot."

He said the alleged conspirators planned to kidnap the consul general from one of the following nations: Estonia, Paraguay, Uruguay, Canada, France, Germany, Switzerland or Haiti.

State welfare probe called for by Rabbitt

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Citing complaints of fraud and mismanagement of state funds, House Speakers Richard J. Rabbitt has called for investigation of the state's Division of Welfare.

"We have had complaints of fraud, of ineligible persons receiving grants and needy people waiting long periods of time to receive assistance or being rejected altogether," Rabbitt said Sunday.

"I have also received information that the Division of Welfare contemplates spending double the amount for office space that it now spends in one of its locations," he added.

Rabbitt, who cited also recent articles in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, said he will name a special committee to investigate state welfare.

A weekend story in the Globe-Democrat maintained the division has been remiss in checking on about half of 26,000 aid to dependent children welfare recipients periodically as required.

Campaign litter

Belgian voters entered polling places Sunday amid the litter of campaign material. More than six million Belgians, compelled by law to cast ballots, elected a new parliament. The Social Christian Party retained its dominant position in national elections that saw the country's major political groups hold their own against regional challenges. (UPI)

Agriculture field days scheduled

A 1974 schedule of Missouri College of Agriculture field days and events has been announced by Elmer R. Kiehl, dean of the College at the University of Missouri Columbia.

Ten major field day events will be held during 1974, Kiehl said. Included are field days at four of the College's out-state centers plus six events to be held at UMC facilities in Columbia.

The schedule of events and field days is as follows:

Mar. 16 — State 4-H Horse Judging Clinic, Columbia

Apr. 6 — 4-H and FFA Livestock Judging and Selection Clinic, Columbia

July 12 — Southwest Center Field Day, Mt. Vernon

July 22 — Beef Cow-Calf Clinic, Columbia

Aug. 30 — Forage Systems Research Center Field Day, Linneus

Sept. 5 — Bradford Farm Agronomy Field Day, Columbia

Sept. 6 — Swine Day, Columbia

Sept. 13 — North Missouri Field Day, Spickard

Sept. 17 — Delta Center Field Day, Portageville

Nov. 7 — Sheep Day, Columbia

Complete program details on all of the events will be announced later in the year as plans become complete, Kiehl said.

Phone cables susceptible to trenching

Bob Johnson, local Southwestern Bell manager, warned recently that residents should contact the firm before doing any digging or trenching to avoid cutting buried telephone cables and disrupting telephone service.

"Every spring we can expect to have one or two cable cuts in the area from ambitious diggers," he said. "Sometimes this cuts off telephone service for just a few residents, sometimes for an entire section of town and sometimes an entire community is left without Long Distance service."

Johnson said that before any digging or trenching is begun, residents should call the Operator and ask for Enterprise 9800. "Builders and contractors can locate any underground cables quickly and at no cost by simply calling the Operator," he noted.

Johnson said road improvements, new houses, projects involving trenching and even large gardens can threaten buried cable.

"I don't think anyone would knowingly cut a cable ... but it happens," Johnson added. "A quick telephone call can avoid the entire situation."

The uncertain miracle

A deadly killer meets its match

By VANCE H. TRIMBLE
Fifteen hundred people die of carbon-monoxide poisoning annually in the United States, and 10,000 suffer chronic ill effects from exposure to the poison.

One expert hazards a guess that 800 to 900 of the fatalities could be prevented by prompt hyperbaric oxygenation, "drenching" the body in a pressurized tank with oxygen, forcing more oxygen into the blood stream.

If more firemen, ambulance drivers, rescue squadsmen, policemen, and doctors in emergency rooms knew the location of the nearest hyperbaric chamber, many carbon-monoxide victims would have a better chance. It has been proved in Milwaukee.

Last winter an ambulance screamed up to St. Luke's Hospital in Milwaukee with a 40-year-old man who was decerebrate — a condition roughly equivalent to a chicken with its head cut off. Shoveling snow, he had stepped into the garage where the car was running. Now he was deeply unconscious from carbon monoxide, his arms and legs thrashing about, his brain scarcely functioning.

His blood was 80 per cent saturated with carbon monoxide. Saturation as low as 30 per cent can kill and 66 per cent, if untreated, is uniformly fatal.

Dr. Eric P. Kindwall, who runs the hyperbaric chambers at St. Luke's took him directly into the hyperbaric chamber, and started pressurizing. When the pressure reaching 20 pounds per square inch, Kindwall said to the nurse: "When we get to 30 (PSI) he'll be lucid."

Then a voice from under the oxygen mask said, "I'm lucid."

This case illustrates the hyperbaric tank's dramatic effectiveness in this illness. Carbon monoxide, the produce of imperfect burning, is odorless, invisible and slightly lighter than air. It is so deadly that air containing only one per cent carbon monoxide can snuff out life in 10 minutes.

Carbon monoxide kills by asphyxiation, blocking delivery of oxygen to vital tissues, of which the brain is the most vulnerable. Oxygen, of course, normally is transported to the tissues by the hemoglobin in the red blood cells. But hemoglobin is about 250 times more attracted to carbon monoxide than to oxygen; thus any of this poison gas inhaled zooms on a sort of top priority into the blood stream, brushing oxygen aside.

If the victim is taken out into fresh air it takes five hours, 20 minutes — provided he is breathing — before half the carbon monoxide is eliminated from his blood. Meanwhile he may die or suffer permanent brain damage. If the ambulance driver or intern gives 100 per cent oxygen by mask, the washout time — as it is called — will be cut to one hour 10 minutes.

But in a tank at three atmospheres of pressure absolute (ATA) and breathing 100 per cent oxygen, the washout time is only 23 minutes! Also the risk of brain damage drops drastically because the pressurization both reduces brain swelling and sends extra oxygen to the brain via the plasma.

Medical centers with tanks in all parts of the country have heartening statistics on salvage of would-be suicides who stuck their heads in the gas oven or left the car motor running in a closed garage, as well as for victims of accidental smoke and exhaust inhalation.

In a recent single year in Milwaukee, St. Luke's hyperbaric chambers treated 59 carbon-monoxide victims. Of those patients who reached the hospital alive, there was only one monoxide fatality — a child who first had been taken elsewhere, causing a three-hour delay in treatment.

Smoke inhalation victims usually suffer also some carbon-monoxide poisoning, but even those who do not will benefit from hyperbaric treatment because the tank steps up their sagging oxygen tension and at the same time reduces edema in the lungs.

Experts realize that countless victims have died not because of burns but through failure to receive treatment for carbon-monoxide poisoning. Such deaths obviously can become fewer when more firemen and ambulance drivers are alerted to the HBO potential. Dr. Bashir A. Zikria of Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons made the situation clear in a review of a series of autopsies. Of 105 fire victims with less than 40 per cent of the body surface burned, he found 77 per cent should have survived, and 76 per cent of these fatalities were related to respiratory complications, such as carbon-monoxide or smoke poisoning.
